Former Blows Chances With Disastrous 79 on His Third Round; Ross Sarvenville Finishes With 308; Abe Mitchell Falters

St. Andrews, Scotland, July 7.—Two youthful United States professionals, Denmore Shute, Philadelphia, and Craig Wood, Deal, New Jersey, to-day tied for the British open golf championship with totals of 292 each for the seventy-two holes in one of the most spectacular finishes in the tournament's history. Leo Diegel tied Gene Sarazen by posting a final round 77 for a total of 293. He missed a putt on the last green for the stroke that would have put him in front.

Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa., also tossed away his chances on the last round, taking a 78 for a total of 295. Meanwhile two of the other pursuers, Abe Mitchell and Walter Hagen, dropped further behind, each taking 36 to the turn.

Shute and Wood will play off at 36 holes to-morrow for the title lost by Sarazen, New York, by a single stroke.

Syd Easterbrook, last hope of the British homebreds, failed in the final challenge to the leaders after a day of starting disaster to some of the greatest shotmakers in golf.

Crawford Wins Over Vines At Wimbledon

Australian Star Defeats United States Champion and Defending Titleholder in Five-set Final 4-6, 11-9, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4; Elizabeth Ryan and Mme. Mathieu in Doubles Final Wimbledon, England, July 7.—Jack Crawford, Australian star, won the final round of the men's singles and the Wimbledon championship from Ellsworth Vines, United States champion, to-day, 4-6, 11-9, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

The Australian became king of all he surveys in the tennis world as he added the prized Wimbledon title to that of his native land and of France.

His bitter five-set victory over Vines, who won the title last year, follows by only a few weeks a straight-set victory over Henri Cochet, once great ace of France.

It was the eighth meeting between Vines and Crawford with the latter victor now in three matches.

Vines easily took the first set at 6-4 but Crawford then came back to run off the next two, the third rather easily, at 6-2. The American came flashing back with all his old speed to win 6-2 and even the match. But Crawford was not to be deceived and smashed through to victory to gain the Wimbledon title.

Elizabeth Ryan, Philadelphia, and Mme. Mathieu, France, reached the final round of the women's doubles, defeating Mrs. Elsie Goldrick, Pittman, and Jean Ridley, England, in the semi-final round, 6-1, 4-6.

GOLD BLOC IS VOTED DOWN

World Conference Committee Decides Monetary Discussion Is to Continue

French Fear Britain About to Break Openly With Gold Group

By Dewitt Mackenzie, Associated Press Writer

London, July 7.—The European gold bloc lost its fight for exclusion of monetary questions from the renovated agenda of the World Economic Conference to-day when the sub-committee on immediate measures for financial reconstruction voted 25 to 15 to continue to discuss monetary problems.

The vote came after an all-day battle over the proposal by Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, that the full agenda be continued, including monetary matters, which the gold countries have been strongly opposing.

The Dominions of the British Empire, Scandinavia and the countries of the Far East and Latin America lined up almost solidly with Mr. Chamberlain's position, which supports the United States thesis.

Among those supporting the gold bloc in demanding elimination of monetary questions until currency stabilizations should be accomplished were Spain, Lithuania, Roumania, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Turkey.

COMMERCIAL POLICY

The committee on commercial policy, a subordinate group of the economic commission, voted a few hours earlier to exclude discussion of tariffs and customs duties, the gold bloc opposing a French demand by eight-to-seven votes.

YOUNG WOMAN SAVES DOGS' LIVES

Fort Erie, Ont., July 7.—Dogs of the Fort Erie district have found a real friend in Miss J. T. Bush, who has outlined to Mayor William J. Hawley a plan to prevent a planned wholesale execution of homeless and unlicensed dogs. She has offered $1 for each dog up to 100 animals so they will not be gathered up by the dog catcher and exterminated.

CONSTRUCTION PLANS IN CANADA ARE GREAT TOTAL

Twenty-six Cities Embarking on Engineering and Building Projects amounting to $160,000,000; Others May Raise Total to $350,000,000

Hamilton, Ont., July 7.—Twenty-six cities in Canada expect shortly to undertake engineering and building projects amounting to $160,000,000, according to a survey made by the National Construction Council. In all, questionnaires were sent to fifty-four cities, and it is expected the final figure will reach $350,000,000.

Twelve local committees are to be appointed at strategic points in Canada, to be formed along similar lines to the National Construction Council, in order to carry out survey and research work in the various provinces for the national body.

Barrymore Responds To Beckoning Lure Of This Territory

Film Idol Hears Call of North and Arrives Here at 1 o'clock This Morning; Crowd of 200 Greets Him

Returning to Hollywood to Commence New Picture in October; Thinks Legitimate Stage Will Come Back Stronger Than Ever

The call of the north is in the blood of John Barrymore, romanticist of the screen world, who is to-day renewing his acquaintance with Victoria before setting out on a cruise that will take him into the beckoning silent spaces.

The magnetic lure of this part of the coast is constantly calling the famous actor and when the opportunity develops he responds to it with all the enthusiasm of a schoolboy embarking on his first adventure.

"You do not realize what a tremendous appeal this part of the coast has for me," earnestly exclaimed Mr. Barrymore on his arrival in the city early this morning aboard the S.S. Emma Alexander with Mrs. Barrymore, the former Dolores Costello, and their two children. "My wife and I love it. Whenever I am able to get away from the studio our thoughts turn to the wonderful country up here. Exploring the inlets along the British Columbia and Alaska coasts is a delight. It is a sportsman's paradise. I do not believe you Canadians realize fully what a scenic asset you have on this coast. I am sure the people of the United States generally do not appreciate Alaska at its true worth. It is a point that I would like you to emphasize. It is a wonderland that everyone should know more about."

FINE PAID IN COPPERS

Albany, Calif., July 7 (Associated Press).—Albany's police court piled up its penalties to-day—$50 of them, received from Miss Alice Priste, twenty-three, in payment under protest, of a fine for speeding.

Burnaby's School Outlays Are Cut

West Burnaby, B.C., July 7.—A saving of approximately $32,000 has been made by Commissioner John Bennett during the first half of 1933 in his administration of Burnaby school affairs.

At June 30, 1932, the school board's expenditures amounted to $178,136. This year at the corresponding date school expenditures totaled $151,174, of which $5,365 was on account of periods not included in the first half of the year.

MEAL TAX TEST SOON IN COURT

Vancouver, July 7.—F. C. Elliott of Victoria, whose refusal to pay a 13-cent tax on four meals totaling $2.70 consumed in a local restaurant June 6 last, questioned the validity of the Hospital Aid Act, was remanded till July 13 by Magistrate J. S. Macdonald in the Vancouver police court this morning.

Mr. Elliott admitted the facts of the case and announced his intention of attempting to prove the act ultra vires.

Relief Workers Had Brief Holiday

Winnipeg, July 7.—Five hundred unemployed relief workers who yesterday refused to resume work on the Grass-roots were paid wages of $5 a month were paid, were back at work to-day, the delayed pay cheques having been distributed among the men.

Political Paragraphs

Election not likely until November. No steps taken yet to set election machinery in motion. Speculation over Twigg's decision. National Councils will have candidates.

Candidates nominated to date: Liberals 34, Tories 10, Independents 10, C.P.F. 15, Independents 10, United Front 5, Total 73.

The B.C. provincial general election is set for November at the earliest, according to H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., former organizer for the Tories.

Mr. Twigg to-day said that no steps had been taken by the government to set the official election machinery in motion, and from what he knew of the situation there would be nothing that would lead to the election of an election-day until the last of autumn. He explained that although it was legally possible to bring on an election in a month, in the present situation there must be the final preparation of the voters' lists before a poll is called. Work on such preparation, which will take a number of weeks, has not been started.

The Legislature automatically comes to an end at the last of August, but the cabinet ministers can carry on in office and receive their pay for as long as supply has been voted.

It is not known yet what part Mr. Twigg will play in the coming election. For the last two elections he has been the party's speaking star, and besides running in Victoria, made campaign tours throughout the interior. He was chosen as Conservative provincial organizer at $5,000 a year and functioned until Premier Tolmie announced his Union party scheme.

Mr. Twigg was one of the few Conservative members who decided to stay with Premier Tolmie and switched the operations of his office into organizing the Tolmie Union party forces. During the spring the Premier publicly rebuked Mr. Twigg for one of his utterances to party organizations in Vancouver and shortly after that it was announced that Neil Loughhead, who had retired as Minister of Lands, had taken over the office of Tolmie party organizer. Since that time Mr. Twigg has made no public statements regarding his plans as to whether he will be a Tolmieite, or go the way of the majority of Conservative members and run under other colors. There has been nothing definite yet as to whether he will go up for re-election in Victoria.

"I KNEW IT," SAYS MRS. JIM MATERN

Walla Walla, Wash., July 7.—"That's the news I've been waiting for! Isn't it just wonderful! I knew he was safe all the time." Mrs. James Matern thus greeted news to-day from the Associated Press that her flying husband had reported himself safe in northeastern Siberia.

Jimmy always has the faculty of taking care of himself," Mrs. Matern said proudly.

DOLLAR UP TO 95 14 TO-DAY

Canadian Currency Closes at New York at 95 1-8; British Pound Up to $4.75

Canadian Press
New York, July 7.—Canadian and British currencies experienced another sharp advance on the foreign exchange market here to-day, soaring to new high levels.

The Canadian dollar touched its highest mark in more than a year at 95 1/8 cents. It opened at that rate and closed just below it at 95 1/8, where it was 1/4 cent above yesterday's close.

The pound sterling opened at $4.66 1/2, quickly advanced to the day's peak at $4.75 and closed at $4.70 for a net gain of 1 1/2 cents. At its peak, sterling was up 1 1/2 cents.

French francs sold at 5.54 cents, up 1/4 of a cent. Dutch guilders sold at $7.05, up 1/8 cent.

STOCK MARKETS

Toronto, July 7.—A wave of profit-taking passed over the Canadian stock exchanges near the close to-day, paring values down from their tops for the day, but still leaving fairly substantial increases.

Trading was influenced from the start by the advances in Canadian and British currencies and a large decline in the value of the United States dollar. Toward the final hour, however, the pound gave up some of its strength in comparison with the dollar and traders began to convert paper profits into money.

A number of new highs were registered, particularly in the utility and banking issues.

Profit-taking also stemmed the advance at New York after one of the most buoyant markets of the year, but leading issues, after cancelling earlier profits of one to four or more points, turned around in the last few minutes and regained some of the yield of yesterday.

AT LONDON
London, July 7.—The United States dollar, left to its own devices and pressed for sale from New York and the continent of Europe, slumped about 21 cents to-day, closing at $4.71 1/2 compared with yesterday's $4.80.

Market observers attributed the selling entirely to the United States money situation.

IT IS HAPPENING ALL OVER AGAIN IN WALL STREET; TWO AMAZING JUNE ROMANCES

"The ticker is twenty-five minutes behind" . . . "United Spinach is up four points" . . . "I made $5,000 in—" . . . "What did X. Y. Z. do to-day?"—It is all just like the halcyon days before that awful fall of 1929. Wall Street has a bull market raging, with 5,000,000-shares days a commonplace.

A story on this new and greater market boom will be printed as a feature of the magazine section of The Victoria Daily Times to-morrow.

Other features of the Saturday magazine section will include:
The most surprising romance of the season—How a poor, but pretty, lunch counter waitress, aged twenty, has captured Philadelphia's wealthy bachelor banker, who will now reside over his Chestnut Hill estate, much to the chagrin of high-bred debutantes who thought he was their own particular property.

How Piccadilly will float to the stratosphere in his "flying laboratory." The story of how Carolyn Crosby, the flour heiress of Minneapolis, naturally eligible for some titled foreigner or a society lion, has turned down the offer of her matchless home to "wed" a starving and live with him in a tiny apartment on $45 a week.

School children master the three R's, but are stumped by practical questions, a survey reveals.

Jimmy Matern, Missing Since June 15, on Flight to Nome, is Awaiting Means to Get Across to This Continent, World Learns; Brief Message Leaves Story of His Landing Untold; Plane Manned by Four Men Now at Terrace, B.C., Ordered to Proceed at Once to Siberian Side of Bering Strait.

New York, July 7.—With Jimmy Matern, round-the-world flier, reported safe to-day in the Anadyr region of northeastern Siberia, the Matern rescue fliers, led by pilot William Alexander, now at Terrace, British Columbia, with their plane, were sent instructions by their backers here this afternoon to proceed at once to Anadyr.

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Moscow, July 7.—James Matern, United States flier, is safe at Anadyr, near the northeastern tip of Siberia, according to a telegraph message received here direct from Matern himself.

"Safe at Anadyr, Chukotka, Siberia—Jimmie Matern," the message read.

The message was sent from the town of Bocharova at 11 p.m. July 5, and was received here in mid-afternoon to-day.

The United States flier's message gave no details of his situation and Air Force and official quarters here were without any information of him.

News of the United States flier, unreported since he left Khabarovsk, Siberia, June 15, was received with jubilation in Soviet aviation circles, where it had been believed that if the aviator had been forced down on land he had a good chance of escaping alive despite the fact it would take him a long time to communicate with the outside world.

The fact so much time elapsed between his descent and dispatch of the message indicated he may have come down at some distance from any habitation.

Cape Chukotki is at the northern extremity of the entrance of the Gulf of Anadyr, near the extreme northeastern tip of Siberia. Almost directly across is the water jump that Matern failed to make, a near-900-mile flight to Nome, Alaska.

It was at Anadyr that Captain Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, appeared 1920 after having been lost in the Arctic seas of more than a year and a half, on one of his attempts to reach the North Pole.

COASTGUARD SHIP GOES
Washington, July 7.—United States coastguard cutter Northland—was 900 miles from Seattle, northeastern Siberia, yesterday searching for Jimmy Matern, the aviator, and was expected to-day by coastguard officials to get in touch with him at Anadyr.

Rear-Admiral G. Hambley, familiar with that stretch of sea on the edge of which Matern came down, wireless the Northland as soon as he received information of the flier's whereabouts.

WOMAN LOSES LIFE IN FIRE

Ten Firemen Injured When Building in West Lynn, Mass., Collapses

Associated Press

Lynn, Mass., July 7.—A woman was burned to death and ten firemen seriously injured early to-day as fire swept the house and the other four were on ladders or close under the walls.

Mrs. Rose Blair, fifty-five, was trapped and burned to death in a second-story room.

The firemen, had recovered the body of Mrs. Blair and were lowering it from a second-story window when the collapse occurred. Six firemen were inside the house and the other four were on ladders or close under the walls.

The walls of the building fell outward toward the street, carrying the fire-fighters with them. Volunteers and firemen responding to a general alarm had the injured men out of the wreckage within an hour.

All were reported in serious condition at the Lynn Hospital this afternoon.

Burglars Flee From Vancouver Drug Store When Alarm Given By Passerby
Man in Terminal City Loses Potatoes From Forty Hills

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 7.—J. McCafferty, Fraser Street, had the unusual experience of watching two burglars at work at 2:15 o'clock this morning. He informed police. Mr. McCafferty was passing near Waiters' drug store, 4089 Fraser Street, when he saw two men enter the store through a door out of which the winduppane had been removed. A second man remained on guard outside.

When the burglar passed behind the counter, Mr. McCafferty raised an alarm and both fled.

Using a ladder to reach a bedroom window, a burglar yesterday evening entered the home of Mrs. J. C. Keith, and stole a purse containing $50, an Edmonton city bond, a driver's license, papers and a car key.

Eighty hills of potatoes across the street from the home of W. C. Fowler, 3358 East Twenty-eighth Avenue, were dug up and removed yesterday. Mr. Fowler informed police.

While P. C. Lettich was visiting the British cruiser Dragon yesterday his pocket was picked, and he lost a purse containing between $50 and $25.

SOVIET LUMBER FOR BRITAIN

London Post Tells of Importers' Plan to Bring in Great Quantity

Canadian Press
London, July 7.—The London Morning Post said today that a group of British importers, had announced in a letter to the British government, that they would import 600,000 board feet of Russian lumber during the coming navigation season.

The newspaper said Timber Distributors, whose previous plans to import Russian lumber were stopped by declaration of the recently lifted embargo against Russian goods, told the clients it was adding fifteen shillings to the contract price for the lumber to cover inconvenience caused by the embargo.

Even with that addition, The Post quoted the firm as saying, the price in the British market would be far below anything with which Canadian timber interests could compete.

ABDUCTION CHARGES FAIL

Complainant Does Not Appear in Court in Princeton

Canadian Press
Princeton, N.C., July 7.—Charges of kidnapping against seven Princeton and Massachusetts men, including two provincial police constables, arising out of the abduction of Arthur H. Evans, were dismissed yesterday by Justice of the Peace Hooper of Merritt, when neither Evans nor Gordon Grant, his counsel, appeared in court. Evans was taken from his home in Princeton, N.C., on June 15, and taken to Alaska, where he was held for ransom.

Ward of the city of Jimmy Matern was transmitted to the rescue fliers at Terrace, B.C., by the B.C. police as Prince Rupert, according to word received at headquarters in Victoria today.

The news was received at the Daily Island radio station from Ketchikan and relayed to the police at Prince Rupert. It stated briefly that the world flier was down at Anadyr, and was in good health.

First word since June 13
New York, July 7.—James Matern, round-the-world flier reported found safe at Anadyr, Chukotka, Siberia today, had been unsupported since June 13, when he left Khabarovsk on an attempt to hop to Nome, Alaska. From Alaska he was to fly to Edmonton, Alberta.

Matern started his flight around the world from Floyd Bennett field on June 3 and made his first landing twenty-two hours later on an island off the coast of Norway. From there he flew to Oslo, thence to Moscow, and on June 5 took off on the long flight over Siberia. He finally reached Khabarovsk June 10, one week after he had left New York.

He started for Nome, Alaska, on June 12, but was forced to back-track because of bad weather. He was forced to land on the second attempt to reach Nome on his second attempt to reach Nome on June 13 and was unsupported from that time.

RECORD ATTEMPT
Matern, a native of San Angelo, Texas, was attempting to break the world flight record of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty of eight days fifteen hours and fifty-one minutes.

On June 23 a rescue expedition headed by Bill Alexander, former Alaska test pilot, started off from Floyd Bennett field to search for Matern. The rescue plane reached Terrace, B.C., where it was held by bad weather. The fliers were at Terrace today when the news came from Siberia.

London Views On World Conference

London, July 7.—Decision to keep the World Economic Conference alive awakened no editorial enthusiasm in London newspapers today.

While The Times thought prospects of world-wide decisions were not very bright, it declared: "It is abundantly clear there are a number of problems which, notwithstanding fluctuating exchange rates, are still susceptible to firm conclusions."

The paper argued that while it would be a mistake to insist gold standard on one point, it would be equally a mistake to insist on a joint attempt to combat the depression.

Mr. Parris was counsel for Clarence Webber, 1346 Commercial Drive, who, suing as an owner of slot machines and a taxpayer, has applied to quash the by-law.

It was passed on May 23 as an amendment to the licensing by-law. Shortly, Mr. Parris's contention was that the ordinance was ultra vires, either the province or the city, as an enactment in the field of criminal law.

UNDERSELLING IS ALLEGED

Canadian Press
Wellington, N.Z., July 7.—Allegation of underselling British goods here was made before the New Zealand tariff board today by New Zealand industrialists.

It was charged these merchants were taking advantage of the British empire preferences accorded to Singapore as a part of the colony of the Straits Settlements, at the same time manufacturing their goods at low cost by means of native labor.

Prof. Murphy, a member of the tariff board, said that under the Ottawa agreement New Zealand undertook to afford Crown colonies and protectorates and certain mandated territories the same preferences as granted to Great Britain.

He expected the commander to communicate with Matern, and if he needed help, that the Soviet authorities would arrange to transfer him to the Northeast as soon as he could reach whatever place the Russian officials designated.

NEW SHIP
Vancouver, July 7.—William Alexander, Matern's rescue flier at Terrace, B.C., wishes to be taken by water to Nome to pick up James Matern there, he stated in a message to the Canadian Press today.

Alexander's message read: "Can you get in touch with the Boeing yacht cruising in Alaska waters and have him come in to Prince Rupert to take our party north to Nome to get Matern and bring him back to Terrace and fly with him home."

Advised of Alexander's message to Vancouver, the Boeing headquarters in Seattle stated they did not know how to contact the yacht Tacoma.

"The W. E. Boeing yachting party was in Prince Rupert Wednesday on the cruise Tacoma. The party is accompanied by a flying boat from Vancouver, piloted by G. I. Scott.

PILOT'S PLANS
The Canadian Press received today the supplementary message from Alexander.

"The Matern rescue party is temporarily down at Terrace, due to weather conditions, and we are trying to contact the Boeing yacht off the coast of Alaska to return to Prince Rupert to pick us up and transport us to Nome. From there we will have either them or some other surface craft take us to Siberia to pick up Matern and bring us back to Prince Rupert, and from there to Terrace, where we will use our own ship to take us back over our route to the United States."

In the meantime Prince Rupert is trying to contact the Tacoma by wireless.

Pilot Alexander has three men with him.

SPONSORS INFORMED
Chicago, July 7.—The Chicago sponsors of Jimmie Matern's attempted round-the-world flight to-day received a cablegram which they believed to be direct from him. The message, slightly garbled, was interpreted to read: "Safe. Anadyr, Chukotka, Siberia. (Signed) Gummy Matern."

The message was delivered to S. J. Sackett, one of the backers of the flight.

Sackett said the message might have been sent by an official near the town of Anadyr, but that he believed it was from Matern himself.

Both Sackett and H. B. Jameson, from Matern's message.

BRUENING MAY LEAVE POLITICS

Associated Press
Berlin, July 7.—Retirement of former Chancellor Heinrich Brüning from the political scene in much the same way as his Catholic Centre Party left the field to Nazi dominance was expected to-day in some quarters.

Centrist parliament members were semi-officially said to be willing to become hostages or affiliates of the Hitlerites, but one source said the veteran Brüning would not follow such a course.

When the sixty-three-year-old Centre Party followed other political groups in dissolution Wednesday Centre Reichstag members of the party were allowed to retain their mandates without joining Chancellor Hitler's Nazis, as were the legislators of other non-Nazi parties, but nevertheless reports persisted their leader would leave political life.

He was greeted by filers and others at the field and after nine and one-quarter hours there took off, arriving a little more than twelve hours later.

To-day Mrs. Jimmy Mattern, left upper, joyfully received the news from her husband. Staying with a sister at Walla Walla, Wash., she had never given up hope Pilot Jimmy would return.

Mrs. Mattern, the filer's mother, lower left, is at Freeport, Illinois, where she learned the news to-day.

U.S. AND SOVIET LINKS STUDIED

Washington, July 7.—The United States is going to make an official study of the problems involved in recognition of Soviet Russia.

Lawrence Steinhardt, United States Minister to Sweden, yesterday started for Europe to make a survey. Announcement of his specific mission was made at the White House. Many held it added force to arguments that the present more friendly relations of the United States might bring official recognition of the Soviet.

When Steinhardt begins his study he will find Russian debts and propaganda activities heading reasons for non-recognition in the past.

STORM LASHES MEXICAN COAST

Brownsville, Texas, July 7.—A tropical disturbance which struck furiously at the Mexican coastline midway between Tampico, Mexico, and Brownsville yesterday evening, causing an undetermined amount of damage there, was expected to spend its fury to-day in the mountains west of Tampico.

Residents of the lower Rio Grande valley, tensely watching the storm's relentless progress across the Gulf of Mexico, relaxed as it hit far to the south.

Violent winds skirting the hurricane whipped furiously at the coastline in the vicinity of Brownsville. So far as Mexican sources could learn, there was no loss of life.

Gen. Herrera declared all political prisoners held at the model prison on the Isle of Pines had been liberated, and that twenty or twenty-five confined at the Principe prison would be set free in the next few days.

Lady Mountstephen's Estate
Probated at $1,000,000;
Bequest to Queen

London, July 7 (Canadian Press Cable).—Estate of Lady Mountstephen, formerly of Montreal, widow of the Canadian railway builder, was probated yesterday at roughly $1,000,000. Gross value was $199,278 and net $188,927.

Many of her art treasures were bequeathed by Lady Mountstephen to Queen Mary, an old friend. These included enamel portraits of Queen Anne and Charles the First, and a miniature of Charles the Second.

She left a collection of pomanders and a Worcester dessert service to the Princess Royal (Princess Mary).

To Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone, Lady Mountstephen left a diamond brooch and her much-cherished piece of the last spike driven into the tracks of the Canadian Pacific Railway's first transcontinental line.

U.S. BUSINESS GIVEN ADVICE

Associated Press
New York, July 7.—A government spokesman bluntly warned United States business yesterday that if it fumbles the opportunity for self-government under the National Recovery Act "the advance of political control over private industry is inevitable."

In uncompromising words Donald R. Richberg, long-time representative of railroad labor, now general counsel of the recovery administration, said that should the industrial control plan fail it would not be a failure of government, but of the present industrial system, either proving the system fundamentally unsound or indicting its present managers of incapacity to operate it successfully.

Search For Man Who Slew Police Officer

Calgary Authorities Say Hunt For Person Who Shot Inspector J. Carruthers Has Narrowed Down to Four Persons

Canadian Press
Calgary, July 7.—Search for the man who slew Police Inspector Joseph Carruthers, shot by an unknown burglar on June 19, has narrowed down to four persons, the police state.

One of the quartette is safe in prison, having been convicted of receiving stolen property.

The unknown suspect is the man responsible for the theft of a car owned by Senator P. Burns in the week-end following the murder.

The car was found several days later at Alaska. Police indicate that suspicion in this case rests only on the departure from town of a high-powered, stolen car shortly after the shooting. They have no description of the driver of the car.

Descriptions of the remaining two men have been forwarded to police throughout Alberta. Both are known to be gunmen.

MAN ABDUCTED, THEN RELEASED

Atlanta, Ga., July 7.—John King Otley, sixty-five-year-old financier and sportsman, was abducted on the main street of Atlanta yesterday by a fruit peddler and a young companion, and four hours later he talked his young guard into helping him escape.

The two kidnappers demanded $40,000, but got less than $10, and one of them—a boy of seventeen, who told police his name was James Pryor Brown of Laconia, Ga.—was persuaded by the prisoner to release him and then accompanied Otley to the village of Swannee, where the financier telephoned home that all was well.

SCHOOL BOARD TO BALANCE BUDGET

Winnipeg, July 7.—Demand from the Canadian Bank of Commerce that the Winnipeg school board balance its budget for 1933 confronted the school trustees to-day.

The board moved at a meeting yesterday to appoint a committee to make suggestions for balancing the 1933 budget. The bank also requested completed plans for liquidation of 1932 and 1933 accounts be in its hands by December 1, and said advances on the 1934 account could not be made before that was done.

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA AND OUR LUMBER

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, last Monday vigorously protested to the marketing committee of the World Economic Conference in London against the purchase of lumber from Russia, which, he contended, was produced by forced labor under conditions which made competition elsewhere impossible. He pointed out that at the Ottawa conference last August, Great Britain and Canada had entered into an agreement which was designed to prohibit the import of Russian lumber into the Old Country, and he insisted that this provision be carried on. The provision to which Mr. Rhodes referred is as follows:

This agreement is made on the express condition that, if either government is satisfied that any preference hereby granted in respect of any particular class of commodities is likely to be frustrated in whole or in part by reason of the creation of maintenance directly or indirectly of prices for such class of commodities through state action on the part of any foreign country, that government hereby declares that it will exercise the powers which it now has or will hereafter take to prohibit the entry from such foreign country directly or indirectly of such commodities into its country for such time as may be necessary to make effective and to maintain the preferences hereby granted by it.

Mr. Rhodes' protest no doubt was prompted by the knowledge that Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary in the National Government of Great Britain, was negotiating with Maxim Litvinoff of Soviet Russia for the resumption of trade relations, the greatest part of which is dealing in lumber. He feared that the removal of the embargoes by the two countries would open the way to the importation of Russian lumber into Britain.

For several years Great Britain has been importing lumber from Soviet Russia aggregating a little less than one billion feet at much less than Britain can buy the same product from Canada. We are up against distance and the cost of transportation. From the northern European countries Great Britain can buy according to her own specifications and at a price with which this country—even at largely reduced prices—can not successfully compete.

It ought to be understood that trade agreements are not of much value if they are based on purely sentimental grounds. The Ottawa treaties represented a fine gesture as far as they involved empire solidarity; but it will not be surprising if, after a year's operation, they have not increased empire trade. As a matter of fact, Canada's business with the rest of the British Commonwealth in the last twelve months has declined, not increased—the treaties notwithstanding. If the removal of the embargo means that Britain will continue to import Russian lumber, in spite of the Ottawa agreement, intra-empire trade will be notably diminished.

JOHN BARRYMORE AND AN "IF OF HISTORY"

A short time ago Philip Guedalla, well-known British biographer and historian, toured this continent as a lecturer on "The Ifs of History." The visit to Victoria of Mr. and Mrs. John Barrymore suggests an interesting addition to the Guedalla repertoire. Until a comparatively short time ago Mr. Barrymore, famed for his histrionic talents to what used to be known as the legitimate drama. In that field he gained world-wide eminence. His Shakespearean presentations were extolled by critics as entirely worthy of the Barrymore lineage which compasses both Great Britain and America. It was almost inevitable, therefore, that he should achieve a similar distinction in the motion picture world.

But let us go back a little. If there had been a motion picture industry of the same effectiveness as that of today, would Maurice Barrymore, the brilliant father of the three present-time contemporary Barrymores, have gone into pictures? Would Forrest, the Booths, Lawrence Barrett, Clara Morris, Modjeska or Mary Anderson, on this continent, or Irving, the Keans, Sarah Siddons, Duff or Rachel, in Europe, have forsaken the legitimate drama for them? What would Talma or Garrick have done?

Our candid belief is that they would have done precisely what John Barrymore has done in the circumstances, and that some of them would have done it with much more precipitation. In the first place, artists, whether of the drama or not, are human—much more human, in fact, than most other people—in the sense that they react promptly to the wishes and caprices of their public. They are not, like Prospero's players, all spirits which melt "into air, into thin air" when their revels are ended. None of them has played entirely out of love of art for art's sake, any more than the shining figures of literature wrote for exclusively disinterested reasons. Artists and authors who starved in the garret did not do so for lack of efforts to sell their product. Villon found it necessary to be a highwayman on the side.

Sarah Bernhardt, who dominated the legitimate stage of the world for nearly half a century, actually did play in motion pictures in her closing days. What would she have not done in that field if she had been in her prime! What a character Irving would have given to motion picture production if, when he was at the zenith of his powers, there were available such facilities for this form of dramatic presentation as those which now exist. How his genius for production would have revelled in the opportunities presented by a medium which can ransack the world for its setting! None of the famous players we have mentioned would have been able to resist this combination of attractions presented by the motion picture industry even at the cost of shattering some great but unfounded illusions.

The Barrymore family tree is one of the most venerable and spacious growths in the field of the drama. Its branches include not only notable players of that name in the present and preceding generations, but, through the Drews, its roots extend a long way back into the soil of the Old Country. His father, who was born in India and educated at Cambridge, and appeared upon the stage first in London, will be recalled by many patrons of the theatre for his arresting personality, his melodious speaking voice and polished performances. It is a commonplace, of course, that the present generation has inherited the family talent in undiminished measure. In the case of John Barrymore, however, it would not be correct to say that the "play's the thing" exclusively, for cruising in British Columbia waters on the yacht is also another thing, which has nothing to do with the mimic world whether on the "legitimate" or motion picture stage.

DOLLARS AND POUND GO ON A SPREE

The Canadian dollar, the pound sterling, and the United States dollar are having what is colloquially known as a "jag." As this is written the Canadian dollar in New York is worth between ninety-five and ninety-six cents; the pound sterling in New York is $4.74; the pound sterling in Montreal is $4.96; and the United States dollar is $4.13 in London.

This is a unique situation. Great Britain is off the gold standard; yet her currency is nearing par in New York and already is at a premium of ten cents in Montreal, while the United States—also off the gold standard—has a dollar which stands at a discount of seventy-three cents in London. Here is an anomaly which may dissolve itself in the next few hours, but meanwhile it remains startling.

Britain's main point in going off the gold standard was to improve her export trade so as to bring her imports more nearly down to the lower volume of her exports. It had this effect for some time. With the increased pound, it is likely the tendency of the adverse trade balance would be to increase, since she probably would import more. On the other hand, of course, it generally follows that as the currency of a large importing country rises in value, especially when it runs over par, the countries from which she buys increase the prices of their commodities sufficiently to make up the difference in exchange.

The position of the United States is not difficult to understand. What Mr. Roosevelt wants is a certain measure of inflation, and he is getting it. This, in fact, is the foundation of his entire reconstruction policy, and for that reason the depreciation of the dollar suits his programme. The outcome is a rise in commodity prices.

The present anomalous monetary situation shows that when currencies are allowed to break away from traditional standards their fluctuations are bound to be very uncertain.

TAKING A NARROW VIEW OF TRADE DECLINE

We are told that Russia is in urgent need of world co-operation to save her from her own Five-Year Plan. We are also told that her export and import trade has been declining.

A contemporary says that any trade relationships into which Great Britain may enter "should be contingent on a cast-iron proviso that Communistic propaganda will cease."

The interesting feature about the "new deal" which Maxim Litvinoff was able to negotiate with the British government—a real Tory government—was that he did all his negotiating with Sir John Simon, erstwhile Liberal turned Conservative. To come back to trade: Of course, Russia's trade has declined. So has Canada's trade declined. Russia's trade in 1930 was approximately $2,400,000,000. To-day it is less than $900,000,000. This country has no Five-Year Plan! Yet, while Russia's trade has declined by less than half in the last three years, Canada's has declined by a good deal more—as the figures show.

On the point of Communistic propaganda, our contemporary should have no qualms. Has not Sir John Simon, on behalf of the Conservative government of Great Britain, made peace between London and Moscow?

Incidentally, the British Empire is strong enough, or ought to be, to withstand the effects of Russian propaganda.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

3,000 NEW NURSES PER YEAR
The Stratford Beacon-Herald

It is beyond reason that the province can absorb 3,000 new nurses each year, and yet training schools report they always have a too great list of applicants from which to make a choice. Those who enter the course know of the numbers ahead of them, but that does not act as a deterrent. It is a splendid vocation, useful, dignified, and all that, and it undoubtedly has a strong appeal for many young ladies. The unfortunate feature is that there are not enough sick people.

ASYLUM IN BRITAIN
The London Spectator

The likelihood that a certain number of men of distinction unable to live safely in Germany may seek a home in this country, as so many refugees from political persecution have done in the past, makes it necessary to scrutinize the government's policy regarding the admission of aliens rather closely. Technically, it would be an abandonment of all the best traditions of this country if we were to admit to our shores men of eminence whom Germany is expelling from her borders. Our gain in admitting them would be manifest and it would not be merely a moral gain.

PROOF

To the Editor:—Some few days ago a letter appeared in The Colonist over the signature of our old friend Mr. Campbell of Sooke, challenging Mr. Kohout, also of Sooke, to prove a certain statement he had made. As I believe I am the one referred to in that statement, I wish to say that Mr. Kohout appears to have a much more reliable source of information than our esteemed friend Mr. Campbell.

THE BOYS OF MINK CREEK.

FROM MR. BRUHN

To the Editor:—On my return from Bridge River to-day, I noticed an item in your paper where my name had been involved in a lawsuit between one Mr. Kohout and a man employed by him.

I really fail to see why my name was brought into this matter. It is true I visited Mr. Kohout's place twice, once in company with the Deputy Minister of Public Works when inspecting roads in the district, and had tea at his place, and once I stopped there with my wife, again having tea. On both occasions I paid for the services I had been given, and complimented Mr. Kohout on the courteous service he was rendering and the excellent manner in which he kept his place. But I cannot remember discussing politics of any kind with him on either occasion.

THE LOGICAL LOCATION

To the Editor:—"Horsehoe Bay," on the Beacon Hill seaford, is the most suitable location near the city that with the least financial outlay and labor could be made into a beautiful, safe and clean outdoor sea-water swimming pool. It is sheltered from the north and west winds by the high surrounding cliffs, and has a graded depth from the shore.

It would be advisable to partly close the entrance to the bay with a concrete breakwater to raise the temperature of the water and to keep out the driftwood—also the construction of a dressing-room pavilion above high-tide level. No doubt there is the problem of its cost to be considered, but it would provide employment for a number of men and the money could partly be found by the sale of subscriptions and the advance sale of pavilion season tickets. CHARLES CLARKE.
915 Pandora Avenue, Victoria, B.C., July 5, 1933.

THE PRUNING KNIFE

To the Editor:—The pruning knife is an excellent instrument, providing it is in the hands of a competent man, but when that knife becomes a ruthless weapon whereby a panic-stricken man feels that his only chance to retain his job is by lopping off someone's minor branches, then it is a "hoof of another color." It is interesting (not only interesting but distressing) to note that Minister Hinchliffe is cutting down and limiting the efficiency of a department which is most important and vital to the working class of this province.

If the staff, which presumably has carried on the business of education, has suddenly become too large and the knife appears to be necessary, why, may we ask, is it found expedient to diminish the hard workers of the department and leave in luxury the men who may be called drones, to eat up the honey those hard-working civil servants have been gathering for the benefit of our schools and the public? IMPRIMATUR.

NEED DIVINE GUIDANCE

To the Editor:—Thank God the World Economic Conference has realized at last, before doing any more harm, what should have been obvious from its inception that it was bound to fail. Anyone who heard or read the opening speeches by His Majesty and Premier MacDonald must have been struck by the total absence of any note of prayer to God for the success of the Conference. The only reliance was on the abortive League of Nations. The present crisis is insoluble by man's efforts, and can only be ended with God's help.

It is not significant that the only major conference of the many which have been held in recent "depression" years, which has achieved anything at all worth while was the Empire Conference held at Ottawa last year, and which was opened with real sincere prayer to God for help in finding a solution of Empire problems?

As a result of the failure of the World Economic Conference, it would appear that there may be a chance of continuing the Empire Conference, which will succeed if only God's help is really and earnestly sought.

The only way out of our troubles is to get back to God and common sense.

E. W. ABBEY.
51 South Turner Street, July 6, 1933.

John Foyer, charged with vagrancy, pleaded not guilty in the City Police Court this morning and was remanded to Monday for judgment. He was charged after refusal to go to a relief camp and persistent worrying of the officials, according to the evidence. The accused explained the reason he did not wish to go was because he required medical treatment for an injured knee.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

EVERY MORNING
Every morning with the dew
Shining on the leaves,
Comes a sense of all things new,
Life seems starting over!

Sun and song and flash of wings,
Leaves so blithely dancing;

Every morning year on year,
Still the wonder greets us;
Spice of trouble, spite of fear,
Nothing quite defeats us.

Days may bring their freight of cares,

TEACHERS MAY NOT BE PAID

Reeve Crouch Tells Council He Has Warned Trustees of Possible Action

Tax Receipts Must Come in to Assure December Salaries, He Says

Failure of tax receipts reaching the estimated total this year may result in non-payment of teachers' salaries during December to keep the municipal budget balanced, Reeve Crouch yesterday evening told the Saanich Council; he had warned the school trustees.

At the time of the reeve's remark the council was discussing a recommendation from the health centre committee to locate the offices of the medical health officer and the nursing staff in the basement of the municipal hall, which would consequently have to be renovated.

The recommendation followed reports of an unsatisfactory telephoning system in the health centre whereby mistakes were often made in medical calls.

The cost of renovating the hall was estimated to be over $500 and the reeve warned against making expenditures for which no money had been budgeted.

"I have already warned the school board that if tax collections don't come in this year, there will be no salaries paid in December," he said.

"I agree that you are on solid ground there reeve," said Councillor L. C. Hagan, "because we can't bleed the ratepayers to death."

The removal of the medical office staff was tabled pending further reports from the reeve and Councillor Fred Borden, chairman of the health centre committee.

Repairs to the old wooden culvert across the Colquhoun River in Ward Four, estimated to cost $175.00, were authorized by the Saanich Council yesterday evening.

Tolmie Ministers Refuse to Be Turned From Fraser River Deal By Conservatives

Despite the opposition of mainland Conservative members in the Senate, in the House of Commons and in the B.C. Legislature, Premier Tolmie and his union government ministers have decided to go right ahead with the negotiations for the highway traffic toll bridge over the Fraser River at Deas Island. The necessary order-in-council approving plans and negotiations with the private company was passed by the ministers Wednesday.

The company with which negotiations are being conducted and which is to be given the government guarantee on traffic returns is known as the Ladner Bridge Company. The original agreement with it, inaugurating the deal, was signed on May 20 last. The proposal was first introduced in the Legislature at last session by R. W. Bruhn, former Minister of Public Works. Following attacks upon it the original Bruhn bill was withdrawn. With some amendments, however, it was brought in again and passed just before the House rose.

Cost of electric lighting in Saanich to May 31 was $433.33, according to a statement submitted to the municipal council yesterday evening. The 1933 agreement with the British Columbia Electric calls for a minimum expenditure of $1,000 at the new rate of 3c per kilowatt hour.

RETURNS FROM INTERIOR TOUR

Hon. J. Hinchliffe Learns of Need For Change in Government Land Policy

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe returned yesterday from a tour of the interior and northern points in his dual capacity of Minister of Lands and Education.

Farmers of several districts met the minister, emphasizing the need for a change in the government's land policy. Mr. Hinchliffe intimated that he is making a survey of the situation and may recommend proposals to the cabinet.

In the northern territory the appeal is that reverted land be thrown open to pre-emption. The farmers also seek security of tenure on their lands.

The minister discussed school matters with trustees at Hazelton, Smithers, Burns Lake and Clinton. He explained changes in the School Act, particularly in regard to the redistribution of grants for teachers' salaries.

Guy Sheppard Declares There Is Nothing in Prosperity Talk

With the declaration that currency manipulation was no way out of the present world difficulties, T. Guy Sheppard, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate in Victoria, invaded Esquimalt yesterday evening to establish a branch of the federation there. He was accorded an enthusiastic reception by more than 200 residents at a meeting in the Sailors' Home.

As for Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General, who is member for Esquimalt, he said he was only sponsoring a Conservation that was out of date.

"The present government system can last for one year at the outside," said Mr. Sheppard. "Under our proposals all taxation is to be consolidated into income taxes which are to be graded on a scale according to ability to pay."

He declared that the public should put to rest the statements of a rush of new prosperity being published in the newspapers. He said there was no such prosperity, and the talk of it was all put out for propaganda purposes. He explained there could be no prosperity as was talked about, as the farmers were operating farms at a loss.

Stanley Moodie was charged in the Saanich Police Court yesterday afternoon with operating a motorcycle without a headlight and remanded one week.

Uncle Wiggly's Cowboy Rabbit

By HOWARD R. GARIS

One day Baby Bunty, the orphan rabbit, hopped so fast into Uncle Wiggly's hollow stump bungalow that she tripped over the doormat and might have fallen upon her pink, twinkling nose. But Uncle Wiggly caught her in his paws so Bunty wasn't hurt.

"But why are you in such a hurry, Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears. "Why did you run so fast?"

"Because I was playing in the woods," said Bunty. "And I heard a funny noise and I ran to find you to tell you about it. Oh, my!"

"What sort of a noise was it?" asked Uncle Wiggly as he held the little orphan rabbit in his paws to quiet her. "It sounded like this: 'Yi yi yippi yi!'" said Bunty and she yelled in a very loud way.

"Why that sounds just like a wild West cowboy," said Uncle Wiggly, laughing. "That's the way cowboys shout. 'Yi yi yippi yi!'" Uncle Wiggly made more noise than Bunty, of course, for he was older and larger.

"That's just the way it was," said the little orphan rabbit. "I was afraid." "You don't need to be afraid of a cowboy," spoke Uncle Wiggly with a laugh. "They are jolly good chaps. But I didn't know there was a Wild West show around here."

Oh! Oh! I'm lassoed!

"I didn't, either," said Bunty. "I didn't see any tents like the time the circus came here, with lions and tigers and nellypants."

"There must be a Wild West show in the woods," spoke Mr. Longears. "Otherwise you wouldn't have heard that 'Yi yi yippi yi!'"

"Oh, let's go look for it!" shouted Baby Bunty, clapping her little paws. For she was no longer afraid, with Uncle Wiggly near her, and she was sure she would dearly love to see a Wild West show.

"All right," answered Mr. Longears. "Hop along, Bunty. We'll go out in the woods and find out who made that yippy yippy sound."

Holding to Uncle Wiggly's large paw with her little one, so he wouldn't get lost, Baby Bunty skipped along beside Mr. Longears. In a short time the two rabbits were in the forest, though not very far from Uncle Wiggly's hollow stump bungalow.

But, though they looked all around and listened carefully, they could see no Wild West show nor did they hear any of the yippy yippy shouts. So Uncle Wiggly said:

"You must have dreamed it, Bunty!" "Oh, no!" said the little orphan rabbit. "I heard a cowboy yell when I was in the woods."

"Well," said Mr. Longears, "you had better hop back home, Bunty, and I will stay in the woods and look for the yippy yippy cowboy."

"All right," Bunty agreed. "But if you find a Wild West show, Uncle Wiggly, please come back and take me to it."

"I will," promised Mr. Longears. Bunty hopped back to the bungalow and Uncle Wiggly began hopping around in the woods. He was sure, by this time, that there was no Wild West show nearby and he was wondering how Bunty could have heard the yippy yippy shouts when, all of a sudden, Mr. Longears heard them himself. There was no doubt of it.

"Yi yi yippi yippi yi!" sounded close to him. Uncle Wiggly jumped in surprise and as he turned around a coil of rope fell over his head and around his neck and he was pulled off his feet.

"Oh! Oh! I'm lassoed by a cowboy!" cried Uncle Wiggly.

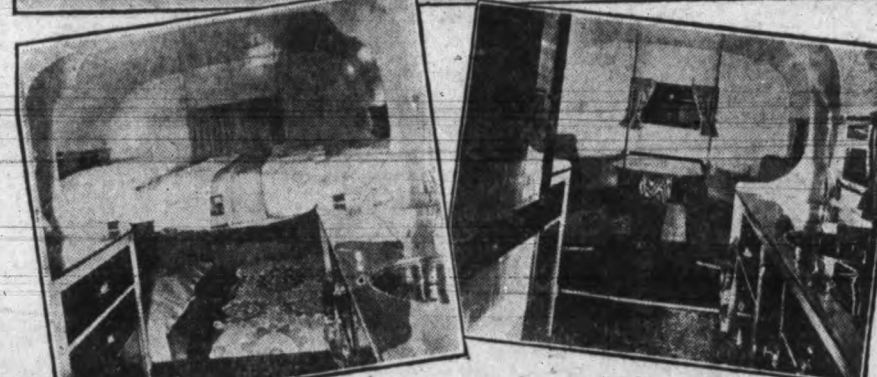

"Not by a cowboy but by a Wild West rabbit!" shouted a voice. "Yi yi yippi yippi yi!" and with that a great big Jack Rabbit, dressed like a cowboy with a big hat, shining boots and pants made of fuzzy sheepskin, pranced out of the bushes. In one paw the cowboy rabbit held the end of the lasso that was looped about Uncle Wiggly's neck.

"I hope I didn't hurt you," said Jack the cowboy rabbit. "But when I saw you standing there I just couldn't help lassoing you."

"No, you didn't hurt me," said Uncle Wiggly. "But please take the lasso off now. It tickles." And when this was done Mr. Longears asked Jack if he had been the one who made the yippy sounds.

"Yes," answered Jack Rabbit. "I did. And I will tell you why. But just then Mr. Longears whispered to keep quiet for some one was coming."

Who it was and what happened will tell you to-morrow in the story that will be called Uncle Wiggly's Cowboy Lasso. And I hope the snowball doesn't go down and play in the coal bin because it will soil its paws and call yippy yippy shouts when, all of a

WITH the advent of summer and the opportunities it offers for outdoor relaxation in Canada's thousands of vacation spots, many holiday seekers are turning to camping trailers like that illustrated above in tow of the Ford V-8 De Luxe three-window Coupe. Not only does this combination carry them to their destination but it also provides a "home on wheels" both en route and at their destination. New Service Tax In Saanich Suggested

Ratepayers Present Plan to Council For Forwarding to Municipal Commission

Would Set Charge For Services Rendered to Make Levy More Equitable

Imposition of a service tax as a more equitable plan of charging land for services and improvements, was suggested by a delegation from the Central Saanich Ratepayers' Association, to the Saanich Council yesterday evening in the hope that the council would bring the matter before the municipal commission at its Victoria sitting.

The council promised consideration of a brief which the delegation consisting of A. G. Lambie, I. G. Scott, John Watson and John Edge, presented. Mr. Lambie was principal spokesman, explaining that the brief had been compiled after investigation, and it was felt that a service charge would be more equitable to land owners who are now compelled to pay for improvements from which they received no benefit. Mr. Scott also spoke briefly on the subject.

It was indicated by the spokesmen that if the council did not present this question to the commission, the ratepayers may undertake to do so.

The brief, addressed to the reeve and council, follows:

CONSTRUCTIVE PLAN

Knowing you wish something constructive for the betterment of the ratepayers of Saanich and the province in general, to bring before the newly appointed commission looking into municipal affairs, we forward the following proposition, unanimously endorsed by the Saanich Central Ratepayers' Association for your serious consideration and endorsement:

1. That improvements of dwelling houses up to $2,000 value be exempt from taxation.

2. That a service tax be put in effect with a minimum set, and to rise according to the required service as a whole, in the municipality after all other estimates are arrived at.

3. That all householders be liable to full service tax.

4. That all single men of twenty-one years of age and over be liable to 50 per cent of service tax.

5. That all single women of twenty-one years of age and over with steady employment, and averaging a salary of $50 per month, be liable to 50 per cent of the service tax.

Our reasons for making for this change in the Municipal Act are as follows:

1. You need experienced valuers in both land improvement values and also building improvement values in order to arrive at the correct value, and these valuers have so many conditions to consider in order to arrive at the correct value, such as structural revenue, producing rental value, situation, and also the condition which varies from year to year, and from time to time, that the actual value be arrived at, and correctly maintained is not practical, and we think impossible without very great expense in overhead. We consider rental value as a more just system to arrive at the just value for taxation purposes.

2. Next, we consider it most unjust for the reason that, taking, for example, two families of similar size requiring the same services from the municipality, such as education, police protection, the use of the roads, relief, etc., one family struggles and saves and

SOCIETY STAGES BEER PARTIES

Gaming Also Smart Diversion in Affairs For Sweet Charity's Sake

White Is "Four Hundred's" First Choice For Gay Garden Affairs

By BETSY SCHUYLER

New York, July 4.—Beer drinking and gaming have come out in the open these days—for sweet charity's sake. There have been several open-air garden parties, for different pet charities, the most spectacular being the annual Greenleaf Fair on Mrs. Payne Whitney's Manhattan estate.

All the money went to buy milk for New York's poor babies, so society women became barmaids, merry-go-round operators, goat, cow and pig handlers—and they talked a pretty sum!

White crepe sports dresses and suits, white hats, shoes, purses and pearls were the favorite attire at this function. Mrs. Ogden Mills looked tremendously chic, running a gambling room, in a white crepe suit, with some of those new wood buttons up the front of the coat that almost matched her lovely chestnut hair.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney, the former Elizabeth Arden, noted horsewoman, wore a smart one-piece, sleeveless white crepe sports dress, with a gay ribbon touch and bow tie. She bought several hats, at the little shop supervised by Mrs. Morton L. Schwartz, making a modish Mademoiselle Modiste, in a grey and white sprigged chiffon ensemble.

One of the gayest sights was the elaborately decorated Italian pony cart that charged to take society babies for a ride, all decorated up in blazingly colorful design, pulled by a donkey.

Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, who was assisting her mother, Mrs. Payne Whitney, generally in running the show, piled her four children, one by one, into the cart for their turn. Then, looking very smart in her white polo coat over a hand-made French crepe dress, she climbed onto the merry-go-round with them all, for a spin.

The barmaids, all society girls, looked very gay in their red, white and blue checked aprons over white costumes, particularly Mrs. Grover Loening, Mrs. Geraldyn Redmond, Nancy Hecker and Polly Potter, who seemed to draw an unusual amount of trade.

Blue and white printed linens came second as a choice of attire, but did not catch up with plain white. However, few looked cool or attractive as Mrs. John Parkman in an unusual blue and white hand-blocked plaid linen, or as Mary C. Whitney, who wore a sports suit of blue and white printed linen.

FLOWER SHOW GAY AFFAIR

Mrs. Harold L. Pratt's estate at Glen Cove, L.I., also was the scene of a similar festivity, the flower show for amateur gardeners. There were pushcarts, all gaily decorated everywhere, with food drinks or gaudy flowers for sale, all manned by society.

Katherine Mather and Mrs. Henry Babcock had unusual luck with their ice cream and soda pop, both looking a little bit like nurses, with starched organdy caps, fichus and aprons, over their white dresses.

The two Robinson sisters, Cella and Ruth, made attractive and persistent cigarette and candy girls, each with a tray attached around her neck with ribbons, holding their wares, both wearing the caps, fichus and aprons of the workers.

Mrs. Ruth Pratt, former New York Congresswoman, looked charming in a delicately flowered gown and white chiffon afternoon dress, with white accessories. The hostess, Mrs. Harold L. Pratt, was another who chose to wear chiffon, a dainty flowered blue and white summer suit, with pleated skirt, pleated sleeves on her jacket and a matching blue hat topped it.

Brides here in America can't compete with Barbara Hutton for elaborate ceremony and the number of gowns in their trousseaus, even if they want to. But there are some charming June weddings taking place.

SATIN GLOVES DRAW "AHS"

Evelyn Byrd Dows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Dows, and Cornelia Bliss Jr. had a charming wedding in Episcopal Church of St. John, near their home in Brookville. Evelyn's gloves attracted many uhms and ahs—they were of white satin like her avoit princess gown, and had flaring deep cuffs of antique lace like the V yoke and drop caps on her sleeves and the smart little lace cap from which her tulle veil fell.

Printed things are to be seen in the majority of practically all afternoon events. Mrs. Shelvin Smith wore a handsome green print, with little white flower in it at Belmont, the coat fitted and long, a new note in printed ensembles. Her shallow crowned sailor was green and it sat her smart head at just the right tilt.

Mrs. Nina La Sava wears jaunty pastel colored, double-breasted flannel sports suits better than almost anybody around. But she looked handsomely in a dinner gown of finely printed gay little flowers against black, with covered shoulders, a backless back and a quaint flounce around the bottom of the skirt.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pints of liquid bile into your bowels, every day. Without that bile, you start. Poor digestion. Slow stimulation. Points in the body. General weakness. How can you expect to clear up a situation like this completely with mere bowels-cleansing salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? They don't wake up your liver.

You need Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Safe. Quick and sure results. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all druggists.

FATHER TAKES CARE OF BABY

Child Welfare Report Shows Reversal of Roles Through Unemployment

Canadian Press
Montreal, July 7.—Father is playing a new role in these days of unemployment and many a baby who is being kept in good health owes it—in part at least—to daddy.

For while mother stays at home and concerns herself with the task of stretching relief rations, the head of the house takes the baby to the health centre. This was disclosed in statistics made public to-day by Miss Esther Beith, executive director of the Child Welfare Association.

Foreign-born fathers are particularly in evidence at the health centre. They bring their babies for examination and "health hints," their wives in many cases not having learned English.

One man—of Czechoslovakian descent—proved himself something of an apostle, when after making his initial visit with his baby he reappeared with four friends and fathers, each bringing a baby for examination.

Tag Day Will Aid Red Cross Workshop Funds

On Saturday, July 15, the Victoria city and district branch will hold a tag day for the support of the Red Cross Workshop.

The drive recently held will not cover this activity for the coming year, and the committee feel convinced that there are enough of people willing to contribute in this manner. This is the first tag day held by the branch since the end of the war, and it is hoped that the public will respond as they did then with offers of help not only in money but in service.

The committee earnestly ask the co-operation of all societies and auxiliaries, also individuals, on July 15, either to convene a corner or give a little of their time.

Further particulars may be obtained by telephoning Red Cross headquarters, 318 Belmont House, Garden 2616, also a member of the Red Cross committee will be in attendance daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Lake Hill W.I.—The regular monthly meeting of the Lake Hill Women's Institute was held on July 4 in the institute room of the Community Hall. Several items of business were discussed and passed. Arrangements for the fall fair were carried forward. The institute will hold its annual picnic at Playfair Park on Tuesday, July 11 at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Triple Wedding Anniversary At Cumberland Home

Cumberland, July 7.—Surrounded by children and grandchildren and showered with congratulations and good wishes from neighbors and friends, near and far, Mr. and Mrs. David Hunden of Cumberland celebrated their golden wedding on Monday, July 3, at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bennerman, the occasion being also the wedding anniversary of two of their daughters, the twenty-fourth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Davis and the nineteenth of Mr. and Mrs. Bannerman.

Quantities of golden broom were massed around the garden fence, which hung white wedding bells. The veranda and the house were decorated with flags and bunting and wedding bells were suspended over the doorway.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunden received a constant stream of visitors during the afternoon. The tea table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake decorated with gold leaves and orange blossoms. Many beautiful gifts and telegrams of congratulation were received, and a bouquet of roses was presented by the two little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hunden of Courtenay.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunden were married in Nanticoke, Pennsylvania, in 1883, and came west thirty-nine years ago, settling in Cumberland thirty-three years ago. Both have been active in community and church affairs. Mr. Hunden having been an elder of the Presbyterian Church and, after union, of the United Church, ever since he came to Cumberland, and is now a life member. Dr. G. K. MacNaughton, M.P., spoke during the afternoon, congratulating them on the happy occasion, and expressing the good wishes and esteem of their many friends.

Musical selections were rendered by McLeod's orchestra, the members of which are all grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Hunden, and Miss Evelyn Blackhall and Mrs. W. E. Brown sang appropriate songs.

Tea was served by a bevy of young ladies, among whom were the Misses Gertrude and Annie McLeod, granddaughters, and Jean Johnson, Evelyn Blackhall, Betty Smith (Comox) Edna Conrod and Minnie Harrigan. In the evening, in the presence of relatives, Yvonne, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hunden of Courtenay, presented her grandparents with a purse of gold. Mr. Hunden making the presentation address.

The members of the family, all residents in this district, are: Mrs. S. Davis, Mrs. S. McLeod, Mrs. Dan Bannerman, the Misses Ellen and Pearl Hunden and Messrs. Edwin, George and David, also fourteen grandchildren here, one in Winnipeg, and one great-grandchild in Winnipeg. One son, John Hunden, died in 1918.

NO HUSBAND'S WORTH $6,000!

No husband is worth $6,000 to Miss Ella Tanner, above, of Madison, Wis. So she is going to stay single for the next three years, and be paid $2,000 a year for it. An aunt willed $10,000 to Miss Tanner on the stipulation she stay single that long. Otherwise she gets only $4,000.

Y.P. UNION TO HOLD PICNIC

Final arrangements were made yesterday evening at a meeting of the Young Peoples Union held in the Y.M.C.A. for the annual picnic of the union, which is to be held on July 12 at Sea Point in Esquimalt instead of Macaulay Point. The picnic is timed to start at 2:30 o'clock, and sports at 3 o'clock, in charge of Metropolitan Y.P.U. supper from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock. The evening programme will be in charge of Sidney Y.P.S.

Arrangements are now completed for an inter-society tennis tournament, which will start on Wednesday, July 26, at 2 p.m. when Centennial will take on First United at the farmer's courts.

The tournament is expected to last until the end of August, when a cup will be presented to the winning society.

Your Baby and Mine

NO SPECIAL RECIPES FOR BABY'S FOODS

Cooking for children is essentially a much more simple procedure than cooking for adults, but I am constantly amazed at the fearfulness with which young mothers attempt to cook for their small children. "How shall I make rice pudding?" they want to know, "and cook all kinds of vegetables?" There is no particular kind of rice pudding for children. When the child is old enough to eat rice pudding or tapioca or sago or cornstarch pudding, he is able to eat it just as it is concocted for the grown-ups.

SIMPLE PREPARATION

We must keep in mind that while we "fancy" the cooking for the more fabled tastes of adults, children need simple food. It should be well-cooked, and seasoned with a timid hand. All vegetables should be scrubbed, peeled if necessary, and cooked in salted water until tender. The less water used, the more the vegetable's own juices will be retained. Cooking time depends on the freshness and tenderness of the vegetables and its particular kind. All vegetables should be cooked until a fork will pierce them easily.

For babies under twelve months of age the vegetable is run through a wire sieve. For older babies the vegetable is mashed well and stringy portions removed. Salt, a little butter, a tablespoonful of milk or a little gravy are permissible as seasonings. Gravies or milk sauces need not be thickened for the young child.

CEREALS

Cereals must always be thoroughly cooked, since under-done starch is difficult to digest. They should be poured swiftly into briskly boiling water, salted and allowed to boil for a few moments until thickened before being put into a double boiler. Fine cereals such as farina demand one hour of cooking in the double boiler, and oatmeal, coarser wheat cereals, or whole barley demand two hours.

Rice and cornmeal can be cooked in an open kettle, a small amount of either poured into a large quantity of boiling, salted water and allowed to cook for a half hour longer. Stir frequently to prevent sticking.

There are simplified general formulas for most of the vegetables and cereals that appear in the small child's diet. We offer a special leaflet on "Recipes for First Foods," which would be helpful for the mother of the baby under two years.

To-morrow: "Make Shampooing Less Painful."

MASSEUR HAS MANY YEARS' EXPERIENCE

St. Donat, Waltons, recently appointed manager of the Turkish and medicated baths and massage departments of the Crystal Gardens, has an enviable record and many years' experience in medical, surgical and Swedish massage, as well as physical and electro-therapy. Mr. Walton's twenty-five years' experience includes work in hospitals and sanitariums, as well as three years' service in Canadian hospitals overseas. For seven years he conducted a private practice in Vancouver, and has also held charge at Harrison Hot Springs and institutions in Calgary and Toronto. He is well known by followers of sports.

Popular Couple Wed Yesterday At St. John's

Two well-known young people were united in marriage at St. John's Church yesterday afternoon when Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick solemnized the nuptials of Frances Victoria, second daughter of Captain and Mrs. W. Cotsford, 1917 Quadra Street, and Mr. Arthur James Lewis, son of the late Mr. G. Lewis and Mrs. Lewis, of London.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a beautiful princess gown of ivory crepe de Chine worn with a short coat and a white picture hat. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, carnations and maiden-hair fern. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Deena Cotsford, in a most becoming frock of jade green crepe de Chine, and a small matching hat of soft straw trimmed with clusters of tiny blending flowers. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations, pale pink sweet peas and maiden-hair fern. Mr. Charles Lewis supported his bride.

After the ceremony a reception for relatives and a few intimate friends was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the guests were welcomed by Captain and Mrs. Cotsford. The latter in a smart black gown of broadened satin, with a knot of velvet violets in shades of purple and mauve on one shoulder, and a mauve hat, and by Mrs. Lewis in a black lace dress and hat to match.

The bride and groom stood beneath a floral arch and bell to receive their friends, and later, refreshments were served from a table set with a large bowl of pink roses with the three-tiered wedding cake at one end and a four-tiered ice cream cake, decorated in pink and white at the other, a gift from the Northwestern Creamery. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will make their home at 246 Howe Street.

Among the many gifts received was a handsome cheque from the Northwestern Creamery, Ltd. where the groom is employed. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. A. Kilby, Vancouver; Mrs. McRadden and Miss Patricia McRadden; Mrs. M. Gyves and the Misses Gyves and Shubert; Mrs. Gyves, Salt Spring Island, and Mrs. H. Brown and little daughter, Winnie, from Rocky Point.

PERSONAL

Mrs. Mary C. Allan, of Hollywood, California, arrived in the city today to spend some weeks as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Calvert, Belmont Avenue.

Miss Stella Butterworth and her brother, Mr. Ted Butterworth, together with Mrs. L. C. Sweeney and Miss Jean Roberts, comprised a party of Victorians who left this afternoon for motor on a holiday trip to California.

Mrs. Chas. Ockenden, Dallas Avenue, left this afternoon for Vancouver to meet her daughter, Miss Helen Ockenden, who has motored to the coast with friends from Toronto, where she has been studying music. Mrs. Ockenden will return to Victoria to-morrow with her daughter, who will spend her vacation here.

Of much interest to the many local friends of the couple is the announcement in a Seattle paper of the issuance yesterday of a marriage license to Mr. Anthony L. Silven, aged seventy-six, and Mrs. Emma E. Pearson, aged seventy, both of Victoria. Mr. Silven is a well-known old-timer of this city, having been the first engineer on the E. and N. Railway after the road was built, and being in the service of that line for many years prior to his superannuation.

In honor of Mr. Alan Sullivan, well-known Canadian novelist, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilson, Island Road, the executive of the Victoria and Islands branch of the Canadian Authors' Association, will be held at the Empress Hotel this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were among the guests and members of the executive present included: Mr. J. P. Bickel, president; Miss Eugenie Perry, Mrs. J. R. Angus, Mrs. A. A. Henderson and Mr. Donald Fraser.

FRIENDLY HELP MAKES APPEAL

The Friendly Help Welfare Association has received two somewhat unusual requests—for a trunk and a suitcase. These are needed by a sick girl who is returning to England to the care of relatives, and whose means do not permit her to purchase the necessities necessary for travelling. An appeal is also made for a single bed, a crib and a baby buggy for several needy families. FOLLOW THESE POINTERS WHEN YOU ARE JUDGING MELONS

By SISTER MARY
Melons should be selected with the greatest of care. They are not good if too green and certainly not tasty if too ripe. However, ways of testing them for the right degree of ripeness are fairly easy and it is a wise housewife who masters the art so she can serve her family with watermelon, cantaloupe and honeydews while they are in season.

Thumping watermelons with your knuckles is a reliable test if your ears are keen. A ripe watermelon will sound dull and muffled when you thump it. Indication of ripeness. Those which are green one rings sharply.

The color of watermelons is another ready to eat will be yellowish on the bottom side and the whole top side will be a dull, yellowish green rather than a vivid color.

FLESH SHOULD BE RED

If you buy large pieces instead of a whole melon, the matter becomes much simpler. The flesh should be red, not pale pink, and be crisp and shiny. Many people think the color of the seeds is an indication of the ripeness of a watermelon. Such is not the case. The color of the seeds depends a great deal on the variety of the melon and the climate in which it was grown.

A watermelon should be heavy. If it feels light when you pick it up, the color may be an indication that the flesh is dry and lifeless instead of juicy and crisp.

Watermelon is an excellent summer dessert. You can serve it with a dash of lemon or a bit of salt. Mixed with other fruits, it is intriguing in a fruit cup. The color is handsome and it adds greatly to the flavor of the other fruit.

HONEYDEWS REQUIRE CARE

Honeydew melons present a more difficult problem than watermelons. They have practically no flavor at all if they are green and are simply ghastly to the taste if they are over-ripe.

You cannot test them adequately by thumping. They are too small to have much of a sound. However, by gently pressing the top side, you can tell if the melon is ripe. It should be fairly soft when you press it. The color should be a mellow yellow with no black spots on the surface. Black spots are an indication of over-ripeness.

Cantaloupes, too, can be judged by pressing the ends. However, real cantaloupes can tell by the smell. Green ones have only an odor, while the ripe cantaloupes have a strong smell.

Cantaloupes, as well as honeydew melons, are a delectable breakfast fruit. They also serve as desserts and can be sliced and served in fruit cocktails.

Cathedral A.Y.P.A. To Hold Dance

The members of the Tennis Club of the Christ Church Cathedral Anglican Young People are busy making arrangements for a dance to be held at McMorran's Pavilion, Cordova Bay, on Friday, July 14. A good orchestra has been engaged to supply the music, and refreshments will be served during the evening. The committee in charge of the dance is expecting a large attendance of A.Y.P.A. members and their friends, and a good time is assured for all.

Plan Heather Day. — The St. James Douglas Chapter of the I.O.D.E. held their monthly meeting yesterday at 2:30 p.m. in the headquarters, with the regular Mrs. Colin Cummins, in the chair. The usual reports were given by the executive and the results of the garden party held at "Pentirew," and the account of the street corners, which were taken care of by the chapter on Alexandra Road Day. The treasurer, Mrs. James Shaw, was instructed to pay necessary bills and subscriptions. Preliminary arrangements were considered for Heather Day, August 26, to celebrate the departure of the first contingent, to the war.

Fund For Presentation of Miss Carr's Painting to Close Shortly

Last autumn a few friends and admirers of Miss Emily Carr, the Victoria artist, whose work has been received with acclaim in the metropolitan art centres in eastern Canada and the United States, launched a scheme to secure fitting recognition of this artist's work in her native province by presenting one of her Indian paintings to the Parliament Buildings. To this end a fund was started, to which a number of organizations, as well as individuals, contributed, but the sum is still short of the required total. In an endeavor to close up the fund so that the presentation may be made within the next few weeks, members of the committee are making a final appeal. Contributions may be sent to Miss Elythe Hambroff, 1025 Craigdarroch Road, and as she is leaving for New York on July 25, it is hoped that anyone desirous of contributing to this most commendable cause will do so as soon as possible.

Working Wives

Nan touched Jocko's hand daintily with a slender, perfectly manicured finger. He was painfully conscious that his own fingers were not manicured at all. But Nan was not thinking of that.

CHAPTER III

Harry Gordon got rid of Alice Maybry, his dinner partner, with the greatest of difficulty. She coaxed prettily, she pouted also prettily, she demanded not so prettily.

This last was something Gordon would not allow from anyone. He rose abruptly and said, "I'm sorry, Alice, but I simply have to work to-night. I shouldn't have taken this much time from my story. Shall I drop you at home or can I leave you at a show?"

"Shall I come to the office after the show?" the girl inquired hopefully. "No, that wouldn't do. I may have to go out of town to-night."

And even then he was not through with her. "When will I see you again?" she inquired wistfully. "When I get back, I'll be sure to see you. I'll be sure to see you."

"I'm going to be all tied up the next few days, but I'll give you a ring," he said, and escaped before she could pin him to a definite time. Good Lord, what a fool that woman was! How had he ever allowed himself to be roped in as her playmate?

He thought of the in as her playmate. He thought of the whole experience with distaste. Her husband had introduced them, a nice fellow, who was evidently infatuated with his pretty wife.

Radio and Jigsaw Puzzle Are Newest Causes of Divorce—But Two People Who Like Puzzles or Crooning Can Have Blissful Time Together; Real Reason for Separation Lies in Lack of Congeniality

IT APPEARS that the jigsaw puzzle and the radio are superseding the platinum blonde and the romantic-eyed sheik as home-wreckers, as within the last few weeks a husband has been granted a divorce from a wife who spent the market money for jigsaw puzzles instead of beef and potatoes and a wife has been granted a decree absolute against her husband who kept the radio going, with the loud-speaker on, until he drove her away from her bed and board.

Of course, to those of us who love to eat and to whom a jigsaw puzzle is a headache and nothing more, it would seem that the man was perfectly justified in leaving a woman who expected him to stay his stomach on bits of sawed-out wood. Also, those of us in whose hearts a crooning rouses murderous passions, and who would enjoy nothing so much as strangling one with our bare hands, can but feel that to be forced to listen endlessly to much that comes over the air is cruel and inhuman punishment that no woman should be forced to endure.

But, on the other hand, there are both men and women who can spend ecstatic hours piecing together scrambled pictures, and there are other men and women who ask no more thrilling diversion than an evening of listening to the blues.

Undoubtedly, many a husband and wife, who cannot talk together for half an hour without getting into a spat have worked out a picture of peace in their mutual interest in solving a jigsaw puzzle. And equally certain is it that the radio has done more than all the combined love and reproaches and prayers of wives in nailing husbands to their own firesides.

So it all boils down to a question of taste and emphasis, anew the fact that the most important thing in marriage is congeniality between the high contracting parties. In reality, that is almost the only thing that matters, because it does not make a bit of difference what a man and a woman are. The only thing that counts is whether they suit those to whom they are united.

A man may have every virtue under the sun. He may be tender, kind and loyal and a good provider, but if he does not like to do the things the wife likes to do, and does not like the things she likes, her marriage will be cinders, ashes and dust in her teeth. A woman may be the incarnation of every feminine charm and grace. She may be amiable and intelligent and domestic and affectionate, but if her every taste and inclination is radically different from her husband's their marriage will be a failure and bring neither one any happiness.

The lack of similarity of tastes is at the bottom of virtually all domestic squabbles and first aid to nine-tenths of the divorces because we never understand people who hold diametrically opposite opinions from ours, who are wedded to different ways, who like the things we do not like and who enjoy doing the things that bore us to tears.

It seems perfectly pig-headed and stupid in them to cling to views that we think foolish, or to insist on having weak coffee when we like it strong, or to prefer a low-browed musical comedy when we adore symphony concerts. Hence the family spat over virtually every subject that comes up in domestic life, and that makes so many homes so dull because nobody dares speak for fear of starting something.

Irvin Cobb declares that the war between the states was not fought to free the slaves. It was fought over the issue of hot bread vs. cold bread, and certainly a civil war that lasts from the altar to the grave is fought in many a family over differences in taste that are equally unimportant. As, for instance, whether a wife shall use rouge or a man use tobacco. Many and many a promising marriage has been wrecked on a compact and a pipe.

If you will recall the tales of woe that you have listened to from disgruntled husbands and wives, you will be amazed to realize that in nearly every case the thing that the aggrieved one complained of was that his or her mate did something that he or she did not personally like to do. The man was gay and liked to step out of an evening, and the wife wanted to sit at home and watch the baby sleep and raised ructions when he went out without her. Or the woman waited out that her husband was an old stick-in-the-mud who would never go anywhere and thought all the amusement any woman could desire was sitting up and watching him read the newspaper or snore on the couch.

The walls of the golf widows are from women who hate athletic games, and the howls of husbands over wives who neglect their homes for bridge come from men who loathe cards. Intellectual men who pick out wives who never read a book in their lives are aggrieved because the wives do not understand them, and women who marry go-getters feel themselves ill-used because they are not dancing partners.

Nothing matters with any of these couples except that they are not congenial. A playboy and girl can have a perfectly thrilling time together going to parties and making whoopee, or two students can have an ideal marriage browsing on Greek roots and nibbling at the Einstein theory. Two tightwads can be happy pinching pennies together and watching the bank account grow. Two cooks can live blissfully planning out new dishes together. It is only when the playboy marries the puritan, and the student marries the nitwit, and the epicure ties up with the delicatessen-minded maiden, and the tightwad gets a spender that trouble ensues.

All of which is a tip to the young: Marry some one who likes to do the things that you like to do and who looks at life from the same point of view that you do.

Away! Away to the Northland! It was now two days since the party of scientists had boarded the good ship Amundsen. Allen was sitting on deck beside Dr. Barstow, and they were chatting together.

The boy and the girl stepped to the ship's rail.

"Could you tell me what place we shall go to?" asked the boy.

"We are now going northward along the coast of Nova Scotia. Before long we shall reach Newfoundland and Labrador. The rest of our journey has not been decided upon definitely, but we shall surely go to Greenland and Iceland."

"Who were they?" asked the boy. "So far as history tells us certainly John Cabot and his crew were the first to discover Nova Scotia. They arrived in 1492. It is possible, however, and in fact very likely that Leif Ericson and his fellow Norsemen came to Nova Scotia about 500 years before Cabot.

"Leif Ericson must have been a great sailor."

"Yes, he was a clever seaman, but it was an accident that he discovered the land called Vineland. A storm drove him out of his course when he was trying to get from Norway to Greenland."

At this point Roberts joined the scientist and his young friend. Dr. Barstow greeted her in a friendly manner, and asked:

"Which country are you most anxious to see on this trip?"

"Greenland!" she replied. "I've heard so much about its snow and ice. My teacher said that it is green only on places near the shore, and she called it 'the mother of icebergs.' I hope I shall see some icebergs."

"Maybe you will! But if I were you, I should not be too anxious to meet one of them! They are a danger to ships."

A moment later, a bell sounded, and the three made their way to the dining-room, where they were joined by Mr. Weston and the others. So far, all on board had proved good sailors, and the passengers were much enjoyed.

Toward the end of the afternoon, Mr. Weston took Allen and Roberts for a stroll around the deck.

"What land is that?" asked Roberts suddenly, pointing northward.

"That is the coast of Newfoundland," said Mr. Weston.

The boy and the girl stepped toward the ship's rail to observe the rocky, rugged coast.

"Who were they?" asked the boy. "So far as history tells us certainly John Cabot and his crew were the first to discover Nova Scotia. They arrived in 1492. It is possible, however, and in fact very likely that Leif Ericson and

BRITAIN'S LUMBER TRADE

Canadian Press

Saint John, N.B., July 7.—It is impossible as yet to ascertain the extent to which Canadian lumbermen will be affected by Great Britain's recent action in lifting its embargo on Russian produce, according to W. Golding of Saint John, who visited England last spring in the interests of eastern Canadian lumbermen.

"My impression is that a new trade pact will be formed," he said, "and the effect on Canadian lumbermen will depend on what is written into it."

Barrymore Responds To Beckoning Lure Of This Territory

HERE TWO DAYS
During the next few weeks Mr. Barrymore plans to roam at will with his family aboard his palatial yacht, Infanta. He stated that he expected to go as far north as Juneau, but would have to be back in Hollywood by October, when he is under contract to start another picture.

"I expect to remain in Victoria for a couple of days and shall then go to Vancouver before heading north to Alaska," said Mr. Barrymore. When questioned as to his immediate plans, he settled himself in a comfortable chair in the yacht's library, extended his hands toward the open fireplace and ejaculated: "It's good to be back on the old ship."

Incidentally, the library on the Infanta is the room which Mr. Barrymore uses most when he is afloat. It is a richly paneled apartment with its own fireplace and a comfortable atmosphere. The wall is lined with bookcases filled with works by Mr. Barrymore's favorite authors.

READS A LOT
"I read quite a lot when I am on a trip like this, and not infrequently I get ideas for a new play," he said in pointing to the books on the shelves. The library at the Barrymore home is an almost priceless one. There are to be found autographed editions of

STRONG MAN, HUH?

Du Maurier's "Tribby," "Alice in Wonderland," Lewis Carroll's masters, a fine collection of Dumas, Hugo, Twain, Holmes, Beardsley and Stevenson, together with the works of many other noted authors.

Both Mr. Barrymore and his wife are recent collectors of old silver, rare glass and fine old furniture.

Mr. Barrymore is a man of discriminating taste and his wife reflects his intelligence in the matter of choosing things well.

FINE QUALITIES
A splendid actor, brilliant scholar, devoted husband, perfect host, a real friend. These qualities epitomize Mr. Barrymore, who is quite a human figure. He is generous to a degree, but has a way of doing big things in an unostentatious manner.

Mr. Barrymore's biggest extravagance, perhaps, is shopping for his small daughter, Dolores, named after her mother. She is three years old and is a charming child, unaffected and unspoiled.

POTENTIAL ACTOR
John Blythe Barrymore, the baby of the family, may be added to the list of potential actors. He is the apple of his father's eye.

While on the subject of his year-old son, Mr. Barrymore related an incident which occurred recently during the visit of George Bernard Shaw to Hollywood. Mr. Barrymore, with some trepidation, asked the Irish playwright for his autograph to be preserved for his son, who he felt sure, would greatly appreciate the honor in later years. At the time Mr. Shaw did not commit himself, but the following day the Barrymore family received an autographed copy of the noted author's "Her God," and inside the cover was inscribed in bold handwriting "To John Blythe Barrymore, whose first articulate cry was for an autograph."

RECALLS FORMER VISITS
To-day and to-morrow the Barry-

more will be seen a great deal in Victoria. Mr. Barrymore recalled to-day that he played with his sister, Ethel, at the old Victoria Theatre a number of years ago. He also spoke of the time he visited here subsequent to the San Francisco earthquake, when he was on his way to Australia to fill an engagement. He was booked through San Francisco on that occasion, but owing to the quake and devastating fire, resulting in a general exodus, he released his reservations to the Spreckles family, and thereby was diverted to Victoria, taking passage by a Canadian-Australasian liner for Sydney.

"I have fond recollections of Victoria, for I have visited here a number of times in years gone by, and I well remember what a charming city it was. I do hope it has not changed in the meantime. I am expecting to meet some old friends here and I want to see as much of the city as I can during my stay," said Mr. Barrymore.

The last time Mr. and Mrs. Barrymore were on this coast was two years ago, when they were making the base port of the expedition by the Infanta to the north. The yacht has made two trips to Vancouver and three to northern British Columbia and Alaska.

TO-FISH WITH FLY
Mr. Barrymore has brought his fishing tackle along and he expects to cast the fly at Campbell River, where he remembers having some exciting sport. He is also fond of hunting and is a good shot, but with game out of season he realises he will have to forego that pleasure.

YET TO BE RELEASED
The last picture in which Mr. Barrymore starred was "Night Flight," a sensational air film which has yet to be released.

Prior to that he appeared in "Reunion in Vienna" with Diana Wynyard, which picture is being shown at the Dominion Theatre next week.

He has a flair for comic satire which never sparkled more brightly than as the district attorney in "State's Attorney," produced by R.K.O. Mr.

Barrymore divides his time between M.G.-M. and R.K.O. He has been described as the "most active performer" in Hollywood.

John Barrymore played with his equally famous brother, Lionel, and their sister, Ethel, in the M.G.-M. success, "Rasputin." In taking the role of the Grand Duke, he re-created an old friend, for he met Prince Yousouf, who was a close friend of his, when he became a great friend. In this play he has to shoot his brother who played the part of Rasputin. Lionel, John readily admits, is one of the finest actors in the game.

The story is told that during the filming of a scene in "Rasputin," Irving Thalberg and John Barrymore were taking over the picture.

Thalberg said: "John, as the Grand Duke, you have to shoot Lionel in the last reel. You don't mind, do you?" "No, I don't mind," John answered, "but the way he's going to steal the picture I ought to shoot him in the first reel, not the last."

Of John Barrymore, who played the Baron in "Grand Hotel," opposite Greta Garbo, Vicki Baum, the author, said he was "handsome, manly and credible." My Baron was a man of action; an adventurer, a fiery creature. John Barrymore calmed this character down: made him gentler, added a dash of resignation and sadness.

MOVIES BUSY
There is no apparent slackening of the moving picture output of the production corporations of Hollywood. Mr. Barrymore stated in touching upon the film industry. New pictures are being turned out steadily and the players have little opportunity for extended holidays.

"I had some difficulty in getting away myself, but I was determined to take this holiday," he said.

The actor did not comprehend that two years had elapsed since he last enjoyed a holiday in British Columbia, and he was appealed to Mrs. Barrymore to check up on dates.

With generations of stage players behind him, Mr. Barrymore is confident that the legitimate stage will survive and come back stronger than ever, despite the widespread popularity of the films. He even ventures to state that he may return to the stage himself one day, although he has not the slightest intention of quitting the picture field.

His last appearance on the stage, he recalled this morning, was in Hamlet, in which he carried the title role at the Haymarket Theatre in London.

FORMER CARTOONIST
There is a close bond of sympathy between Mr. Barrymore and newspapermen, for while he was a newspaperman himself before he embarked upon his theatrical career. He was a cartoonist with The New York Evening Journal, and it was his job to illustrate the last page of the newspaper. "It was a great life and I enjoyed the experience," he commented.

He knew and worked with a number of newspapermen who have since achieved prominence, including Herbert B. Swope, Frank O'Malley, Irvin Cobb and Jack Laity of The Chicago Daily Tribune.

About the time of the revolution in Russia, Mr. Barrymore, who by this time had achieved fame in his chosen career, was invited to accompany Jack Laity to Russia on a mission to interview Czar Nicholas for The Chicago Tribune. Barrymore's assignment was to draw a series of cartoons to illustrate Laity's articles.

Before the trip could be arranged, however, the Czar and his family met their tragic fate and the mission was automatically cancelled.

So Mr. Barrymore stayed with the stage, although he admitted he would have liked to have made the trip to Russia.

CROWD AT DOCK
The Es. Emma Alexander, carrying the Barrymore family, with nurses and inside, reached the Rithet docks at 1.30 o'clock this morning. The Barrymore crowd was ready to come ashore when newspapermen went aboard. The distinguished actor's face lit up with pleasure when he learned that his yacht was moored at the opposite side of the dock. He turned to Capt. Otto Mathies, the skipper of the Infanta, and exclaimed: "Hello, Otto," shaking hands with him.

As Mr. Barrymore came down the gangway he was flanked by a cheering, numbered some 200 people, men and women, despite the lateness of the hour. Some of the women carried photographs, determined if possible to get the film actor's autograph.

Earlier in the evening the dock was thronged by people seeking to get aboard the Infanta. Special precautions had to be taken to keep the crowd back.

EMPIRE SHOWS TWO PICTURES

Adventure Film and "That Night in London" Opening Here To-day

A unique exploration-and-adventure film, "Explorers of the World," is now at the Empire Theatre. It represents the first experiment of its kind, which is that of combining the six expeditions of as many celebrated explorers to various parts of the world.

The film employs an interesting dramatic device, opening upon a banquet table at which are seated six explorers, Harold Noice, one of the explorers and the director of the picture, arises, and acting as a master of ceremonies, introduces his colleagues individually. Each of these world-famous explorers then shows the films of a few of his most thrilling adventures in far away corners of the earth and accompanies the same with a running flow of interesting comments.

The explorers represented in the picture are: James L. Clark of the American Museum of Natural History, who takes you through Africa; Harold McCracken and his films of the Arctic; Gene Lamb and his scenes of Asia; Lieut.-Commander R. S. Sherrin and his adventures in the Antarctic; Harold Noice and his expedition to the headwaters of the Amazon, and Dr. Laurence M. Gould, who tells of his expeditions with the Byrd expedition to the South Pole.

The second feature picture at the Empire Theatre this week is "That Night in London," starring Robert Donat, Pearl Argyle and Miles Mander.

For the first time since he worked as a "super," carrying a spear on the stage in a play with Jane Cowell, Clark Gable wears a uniform as part of his military outfit in "The White Sister," in which he is co-starred with Helen Hayes. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer wardrobe department assigned Gable the full regalia of an Italian officer with high neck, cape and regulation boots and spurs. The new talking-picture version of F. Marion Crawford's classic romance is now at the Dominion Theatre.

CAPITOL THEATRE
Described as a glittering panorama of New York life from Battery Park to Harlem, "Made on Broadway," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, with Robert Montgomery and Sally Eilers, two of the screen's most popular younger players, co-starred for the first time.

Montgomery is said to have another high-speed comedy role as Jeff Bidwell, super-fixer, "wise guy" and debonair gambler who hoodwinks society and resists a harvest on Broadway. Miss Eilers undergoes an interesting character development as the cafe waitress who is rescued from a watery grave by Montgomery and who subsequently becomes one of Manhattan's most popular playgirls.

Also being shown is the gripping mystery "The Phantom Express," starring J. Farrell McDonald and Sally Blane.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE
Vince Barnett, who played the left-handed secretary to Paul Muni in "Scarface," one of the funniest characterizations seen in pictures in many months, plus a comedy role in "The Night Mayor," a Columbia production featuring Lee Tracy, showing to-day at the Playhouse Theatre.

Barnett is a famous Hollywood character, known as the man who has played practical pranks upon most of the well-known stars and directors of the movie colony.

COLUMBIA THEATRE
ZaSu Pitts easily qualifies as the busiest actress in the Hollywood screen colony, since in a space of twelve months she has appeared in a total of thirty-eight pictures. In "Is My Face Red?" for example, she worked for two hours, and in "Back Street" was before the cameras for four hours. Miss Pitts is co-starred with Slim Summerville in "They Just Had to Get Married," Universal's hilarious comedy which is now playing at the Columbia Theatre.

HOLLYWOOD PERSONALS
Hollywood, July 7.—Things one learns while knocking about town: Donald Cook reads all the books he can find by Russian authors.

Richard Cromwell was an art scholar while attending high school. Raquel Torres started her movie career as an usherette in Grauman's Chinese Theatre.

Jack Holt has been a gold miner, trapper, guide in Alaska, cowpuncher and "sandhog" in under-river tunnel work.

OUT OUR WAY

He knew and worked with a number of newspapermen who have since achieved prominence, including Herbert B. Swope, Frank O'Malley, Irvin Cobb and Jack Laity of The Chicago Daily Tribune.

About the time of the revolution in Russia, Mr. Barrymore, who by this time had achieved fame in his chosen career, was invited to accompany Jack Laity to Russia on a mission to interview Czar Nicholas for The Chicago Tribune. Barrymore's assignment was to draw a series of cartoons to illustrate Laity's articles.

Before the trip could be arranged, however, the Czar and his family met their tragic fate and the mission was automatically cancelled.

So Mr. Barrymore stayed with the stage, although he admitted he would have liked to have made the trip to Russia.

MRS. H. KENT LAID TO REST

Flowers From Her Own Garden as Family Tribute at Funeral To-day

Many beautiful floral tributes, including a magnificent floral spray sent by the family and composed of the deceased's favorite flowers grown by her in her own garden, marked the funeral this afternoon of Mrs. Herbert Kent. The cortege proceeded from the funeral parlor to Christ Church Cathedral, where Dean Quinlan conducted the impressive service in the presence of many sorrowing friends.

The hymn sung was "Flight the Good Night," and in place of the usual funeral march, the casket was borne from the church to the strains of "Goodnight," in deference to the expressed wish of the late Mrs. Kent.

Interment was made in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery, the pallbearers including Magistrate George Jay, R. H. Ellis, W. H. Binns, and the three sons, C. Trudell Kent, Daryl H. Kent and M. Aubrey Kent.

HOTEL LOBBY GOSSIP

For the purpose of making an inspection of forest conditions on Vancouver Island, D. Roy Cameron, associate director of the Federal Forestry Service, Ottawa, is in the city. Mr. Cameron arrived at the Empress Hotel yesterday and expects to remain here several days. He has met P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester, and other members of the Provincial Forestry Department here.

Watkins of Long Beach, Calif., is a visitor at the Empress Hotel today, accompanied by his wife. One hundred and fifty-four military cadets are enrolled at the academy. Mr. Watkins said there had been no earth tremor at Long Beach for a month since his departure on June 15. The buildings of the academy, which are constructed of steel reinforced concrete, were not affected by the quake.

Tourist travel on the island is good, according to Mrs. Josephine Wark, owner of Klitas Lodge, the well-known Sprout Lake resort, who is registered at the Empress Hotel. A number of special parties from distant points in the states have been staying at the lodge this season.

Hector Charlesworth, chairman of the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, Ottawa, is expected to arrive in the city to-morrow morning from Vancouver. He will make his headquarters to stay over until Monday.

STARS MODEST OUT IN SOCIETY

Little Make Up and Quiet Dressing Makes Them Unrecognizable to Many

Their Manners So Perfect They Appear as Any Social Registerite

By JULIA BLANSHARD
New York, July 7.—When Professor Raymond F. Moley sailed for the London Conference, those seeing him off got a nice, friendly laugh at the expense of Laurence A. Steinhardt, new envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Sweden. Because Moley was so careful to his on the pier, shouted: "Goodbye, boy!"

As a matter of fact, Steinhardt is the "baby diplomat" of the Roosevelt administration. He is just forty, but looks about thirty because he is an outdoor, well-knit, straight-as-an-arrow man and has buoyant health, a blooming sunshiny, a merry gleam in his wide-spaced gray eyes and tremendous enthusiasm for swimming, fishing, sailing, riding, skiing and other outdoor sports.

However, he is a very serious-minded person—a lawyer, doctor, economist, banker. Since March, anyway, he has been spending from three to five hours nights burrowing into everything he can lay hands on that deals with economics and finance. He learned French and German when he did English and speaks both languages like a native. Traveling is his biggest hobby—when he sails early in July it will be his twenty-seventh voyage!

STARDOM'S MODESTY
Many of the best stage stars dress in such quiet good taste, when appearing socially, wear so little make-up and have such perfect manners that they usually have to be pointed out to you, the first time you see them off-stage. Katharine Cornell, Cornelia Otis Skinner, Ina Claire, Jane Cowl and Helen Hayes all look just like well-dressed social registerites.

At the garden party Lawrence Langner, director of the Theatre Guild, gave at his Cannondale, Conn., farm, the most demure and inconspicuous son present was the cut-up, Dorothy Gish. Dressed in a simple navy blue summer silk suit, with a blue felt hat, she was quite lost against the huge beds of blue delphinium. However, when in a small group, Dorothy can keep the whole crowd in laughter at her clowning. There is nobody she can't out-wit!

Armina Marshall, Lawrence Langner's wife, an actress in the Little Theatre at Westport, Conn., and an indefatigable gardener, is responsible for the lovely flowers on Langner's Lane Farm. From the house out to the swimming pool there is a series of perfectly beautiful arches, with red and pink climbing roses in full bloom, and a friend's wife, Russian Ellen, Krylenko, can hardly bear to leave her Croton garden to go to Martha's Vineyard for the summer.

While not a gardener, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has a keen appreciation of the country. She likes it primitive. For the past few years she has taken her daughter and a friend with two children and gone to a little house up in Connecticut where there is no plumbing and where they cook over a wood-burning stove and use candles and lamps. The children do much of the work. Miss Perkins feels it excellent training for the young, in this machine age, to get a taste of primitive living.

OCTOGENARIAN DIES
At the family residence, 153 Rendall Street, the death occurred yesterday evening of Alexander Whyte, in his eighty-second year. He was born at Bridge of Weir, Scotland, and is survived by one daughter, Lavinia, two sons, Edward, and Robert S. R. Whyte, at home. Funeral services will be held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Hayward's B. C. Funeral Chapel. Interment will be made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Canada's Golf Stars Battle To-morrow For Willingdon Cup

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Ruth Again Crashes Into Sport Spot-light.

Big Fellow Gives His Critics Something More to Worry About.

Winooka, Australian Horse, Expected To Do Well in America.

BAKE RUTH just won't be counted out. The old home-run king and one of the most colorful players in the history of major league baseball, trotted off with the lion's share of the glory in yesterday's battle between the American and National all-stars at Comiskey Park, Chicago, with one mighty smash into the stands for a home run that gave his team its margin of victory over John McGraw's boys. What could be more fitting than for Ruth to be the hero? Like Walter Hagen in golf, Ruth has been written off as finished on numerous occasions but he has always come back to the discomfort of his critics. Like Hagen he is continually in the spotlight.

The other day Ruth was benched by the New York Yankees for his failure to hit. And once again the expert declared baseball's mightiest hitter had reached the end of the trail. But he has popped back again, there have been signs from time to time of the return of Ruth. Year after year, as spring came and Ruth went through his training grind, the fear was expressed that Babe's aged body would not stand the stress and struggle of another big league campaign.

Now and then a tendon would weaken in the slender legs that have to bear the massive body and shoulders the big fellow swings at the plate. Once he was rushed to New York with a pain in his stomach. Only last fall, under the heat of the closing days of the Yankee pennant drive, the big Babe fell by the wayside. While the team was on the road, Ruth was stricken suddenly. Appendicitis was diagnosed and he was rushed back to New York. But he returned to the game after a short rest. Ruth has been out of the game at intervals during his great career with the Boston Red Sox and Yankees but the other day was the first time he was benched for failure to hit the ball. Now he has crashed back into the limelight in a game in which the cream of the base-ball world participated.

Winooka, one of Australia's famed horses, has just arrived at Los Angeles to attempt the task of winning America's racing honors as ably begun by Phar Lap, and so woefully attempted by Pillow Fight and Tea Traders. The ill-fated Phar Lap was little short of a sensation in America. Davis and Telford gave him what most Americans considered rather poor conditioning, and then sent him out to a recording victory in the Kentucky Derby. Shortly after that, the "red terror" died suddenly of colic.

Pillow Fight and Tea Traders came over last year, but neither horse could show much ability against mediocre American horses. What they can do remains to be seen.

The invader, however, is "one of those horses." In Australia, Winooka has done enough to cause Australian handicappers to put everything up to and including a season's truck on his back. For that reason, his owners are looking for rich purses and light weights (the American weight scale is lower than the Australian), or perhaps match races with Equiptose and Gallant Sir.

Winooka has several sensational accomplishments to his credit. He outdistanced the turf world by running a mile in 1:35 1/2 with 139 pounds on his back. No horse in Australia ever had run a mile under 1:36, under any weight. Such a race compares favorably with Equiptose's record of 1:34 2-5 with 128 pounds on his back. Winooka won by four lengths, pulled up.

Winooka made his brilliant record in the Doncaster Cup, and as though this were not enough he won four races in three days, the Doncaster mile being one of them. They were won in the easiest fashion, and before leaving for the United States he made it five straight.

It doesn't take any kind of consideration to know that he is a real horse. The catch seems to be that the bay son of the great Windbag and Kanooka never has run a distance over a mile. Up to and including a mile the Australians seem to consider him a better horse than Phar Lap. Winooka is a son of Windbag, one of Australia's best horses of the dozen years ago, and a present star sensation. Windbag was able to win a Melbourne Cup under 130 pounds, and since that race is at two miles, his son, Winooka, may well turn out to be a stayer.

Northern League Club Is Changed

East Grand Forks, Minn., July 7.—Johnny Anderson became the new owner of the East Grand Forks Northern League Baseball Club yesterday following a conference with local business men who pledged him their support.

Transfer of the club from R. L. Voeltz, former owner, to Anderson was completed at an undisclosed price and the team left immediately for Brandon, where it is scheduled to open a three-game series which starts the second half of the split season.

Anderson, who had purchased the East Grand Forks franchise and would transfer his affiliations there Friday.

Anderson, recently released as manager, will return to the lineup.

With their all-star argument a matter of record now, major league club, with some exceptions, returned to the normal course of baseball events to-day, inaugurating new inter-sectional series in both circuits.

The western National League club, who suffered painful reverses in their recent tour of the east, resumed their home stands against eastern opposition, while the American Leaguers from the midlands began to board the powerful eastern clubs in their own defense.

Canadian Amateur Opens on Monday

Alan Taylor, Victoria, P.N.W. Finalist, Has 74 in Practice; Delp Shows Form

Vancouver, July 7.—Beautiful Shaughnessy Heights course is a centre of international golfing interest to-day as the cream of Canada's amateurs and many United States stars prepare for the opening of the Canadian amateur tournament Monday. Outstanding Maple Leaf shotmakers will be given a preliminary test to-morrow, however, when four-man teams representing six provinces, ply their clubs over thirty-six holes of medal play to decide the inter-provincial championship.

The British Columbia team will be composed of Alan Taylor, Victoria, finalist in last week's P.N.W. championship, and Ken Black, Stan Leonard and Jack Fraser all of Vancouver. Jack Matson, Victoria, is captain of the coast squad.

Quebec and Saskatchewan teams have joined the British Columbia team for practice rounds over the championship course. C. C. "Happy" Fraser, captain of the Quebec contingent, declared following thirty-six holes of practice yesterday that the five far-easterners are in top form paced by the defending champion, Gordon Taylor, Montreal. Taylor is playing studied and consistent golf in preparation for the defence of his crown. Yesterday afternoon he carded a 73, the best score being made by Carroll Stuart, Montreal, and Frank Corrigan, Ottawa.

Dr. J. T. McGibbon, veteran leader of the Saskatchewan team, endorsed Fraser's appreciation of the Shaughnessy Heights course, declaring the fairways and greens were in "marvelous" condition. The five Saskatchewan all-stars, who are R. B. Wilson, Saskatoon, spent the entire day on the course, awaiting their arrival yesterday morning.

DOLF IN FORM Outstanding among the practice rounds yesterday was that of Frank Delp, Portland, former Pacific Northwest and United States western titleholder, who toured the par 72 layout in the afternoon.

Gray course, former member of the British Columbia inter-provincial team, who was disregarded when the selection was made this year, carded two consecutive rounds of 73 and 74 to mark himself as an outstanding contender. Alan Taylor, Victoria, Pacific Northwest finalist in the British Columbia capital last week, turned in a 74.

INVIATION TOURNEY B. L. Anderson, Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Golf Association, announced yesterday, following his arrival here, that following the plan suggested for those players who fail to qualify for the championship event, prizes will be given for the best gross and net scores in eighteen holes played Tuesday and again Wednesday.

Inclusion of a large number of brilliant United States shot-makers has added an international flavor to the tourney, with entries received from all states on the Pacific Coast and several from the far east. The eastern Canada contingent will be smaller than usual, but Ontario and Quebec will be represented by the cream of their amateur stars, led by the defending champion, handsome Gordon Taylor, of the Kanawake, Montreal.

Vancouver, July 7.—Aubrey Sanford, Victoria, Western star, and his wife, who are in hospital suffering from infection allegedly sustained after a rub-down shortly before a recent soccer match, Turner and Stobart, also affected, are able to be about.

CRACKS BONE IN BALL GAME

Cyril Wightman, "star" right-fielder for the Colonist baseball team, found the game with the Gray Line busmen to be an expensive affair yesterday evening.

Wightman, when he came running in to field a fly ball, got the sun in his eyes, and misjudged the ball getting it on the cheek-bone instead of the glove. A baseball was "yanked" to receive first-aid for the injured orb. After getting first aid he went back and finished the game.

To-day Wightman found that he had cracked the cheek-bone in several places and that it would be necessary to have the bone set. It was taken so that the actual extent of the injuries could be ascertained.

AMES STAR IN KENT VICTORY

Puts on 295 Runs in English County Cricket Win Over Gloucestershire

London, July 7.—A near triple century by Leslie G. Ames, famous test player, and two other centuries, aided Kent in scoring a smashing victory over Gloucestershire in a county cricket championship game, ending yesterday, at Folkestone. Kent's good bowler, Freeman, took a total of eleven wickets for less than six runs apiece. The scores: Gloucester 135 and 173 (Freeman five for 18 and six for 49); Kent 295 for five declared (Ames 295, Todd 121, Valentine 113 not out), Kent winning by an innings and 294 runs.

Oxford trounced the M.C.C. by six wickets at Lords, where the scores were: M.C.C. 132 and 135; Oxford 128 and 141 for four wickets (Hone 65 not out).

Scores in other first class matches, concluding to-day, were as follows:

Sussex 421 (James Langridge 125, H. Parks 51); Lancashire 249 for eight (Tidley 94), at Hove.

Northants 384 and 30 for one (Dugg 121, Wellard six for 105); Somerset 220 (Wellard 41), at Northampton.

Hampshire 280 and 30 for three (Kennedy 97, Mayor five for 70); Warwickshire 268 (Groom 78, Kilner 80, Creese four for 18), at Southampton.

Nottinghamshire 196 and 191 for two (Smart four for 36, Keeton 60); Glamorgan 249 (Turnbull 68, Lawie 60, retired hurt), at Swansea.

Derbyshire 443 (Tomlinson 181, Smith six for 119); Essex 268 for eight (Pope 54, Nichols 79 not out), at Leyton.

H. D. G. Leveson-Gower's XI 246 and 93 for three (Wellings 125); Cambridge University 372 (Winlaw 122, Human 115), at Eastbourne.

Lester Patrick, big hockey mogul from the east, showed the local fans what he could do on a ball field when he covered the first base. He was on the sack at all times, and in spite of the wild-pitching that were thrown him he covered them all and was marked up with many put-outs. It was rumored that Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees was in attendance at the game.

Brouillard Uses Youth and Speed To Crush Walker

Becomes Threat For Middle-weight Title By Smashing Victory Over Veteran

Walker Displays Great Courage

Stands Up Under Terrific Punishment; Brouillard Wins Eight of Ten Rounds

Boston, July 7.—The black-thatched bobbing head of Lou Brouillard, formerly of St. Eugene's, Que., rose up menacingly to-day among the contenders for the world middleweight boxing championship. "Larrupping Lou," tipping the scales at 161 pounds, yesterday evening gave Mickey Walker, one of the really good old men left in the ring, a thorough trouncing in the headline ten-rounder of the Boston Garden's show before 16,000 wildly acclaiming supporters.

It was the cunning and experience of age pitted against the youth and speed of a younger man. Brouillard gave a convincing reason why he should be ranked with Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, and other top-notch middleweights, by belting Walker all over the ring in the first three rounds.

From the starting bell until the fourth, Walker was unable to make any kind of a stand against Brouillard's sustained rushing.

Walker rallied gamely in the fourth and fifth frames but was completely outclassed thereafter. Brouillard connected with a smashing left hook in the eighth and ninth—the blow that even beat Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver, world welterweight champion, some months ago.

Brouillard resumed his rushing tactics in the sixth and commenced the battle all the way to the final bell. There were no knockdowns, but only Mickey's famed courage kept him upright in the seventh when Brouillard shouldered into a vicious left to Walker's body.

The veteran made a pathetic appearance in the final session. Realizing that only a knockout punch would give him the victory, he took long chances to throw his wide right and Brouillard gave him an unmerciful beating every second of the last three minutes. Walker, weighed 170 and Brouillard 161.

PARKER WINS GREAT MATCH

Milwaukee Youth Turns Back Berkeley Bell in U.S. Clay Court Championships

Chicago, July 7.—Frankie Parker, young Milwaukee stylist, and Junior Coen, Kansas City, battled their way into the semi-finals of the national clay court singles championship tournament, and battled was the word for it.

Parker, top seeded and the favorite, had to come from behind to get past Berkeley Bell, fiery little star from Austin, Texas. Bell won the first two sets, 7-6, 4-6. He weakened, however, and the methodical Milwaukee youngster won the next three, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Coen won a place opposite Parker in the semi-finals by staging a fine rally to eliminate Jack Tidball, the hard-hitting Californian, who holds the intercollegiate title. Parker and Coen will meet Saturday.

JOHN MCGRAW HAD HIS HEART SET ON VICTORY IN GAME'S DREAM TILT

Former Manager of New York Giants, Who Came Out of Retirement To Pilot National League All-stars, Praised Performance of Clubs; Extends Congratulations to Connie Mack, Leader of American Leaguers.

Chicago, July 7.—Baseball's dream game has been played and the story thereof is largely another tale about the man who made the home run famous—George Herman Ruth.

Thirteen hand-picked stars from American League teams defeated seventeen selected National Leaguers, 4 to 2, yesterday at Comiskey Field, before a capacity attendance of 40,000 fans. And it was one of old Mr. Ruth's blasts that accounted for the two big runs.

The typical Ruthian gesture came in the third inning with Charlie Gehringer, Detroit Tigers, on first base. Wild Bill Hallahan of St. Louis Cardinals was the victim. With the count one ball and a strike Hallahan served the next one up about knee-high and outside. A mighty swing by the thirty-nine-year-old Ruth and the ball sailed into the lower deck of the right-field stands.

Other thrills There were other thrills but that resounding smash gave the American League another triumph over its rival. In the eighth Ruth leaned against the wall to haul down a drive by Chick Hefner, and end the National's last rally.

From the start, the spectacle was just about perfect. Perfect baseball weather with not a cloud in the sky. A huge happy crowd, John McGraw and Connie Mack matched against each other, probably for the last time. All a lot of high-class baseball, made it that.

The National Leaguers were beaten, but not disgraced. Outside of Ruth's wallop, which was matched in size, but not importance, by Frankie Frisch, and better control on the part of the junior circuit's pitchers, there was little to choose.

After the last ball sank into Rick Perrell's glove, McGraw bounded out of the dugout and shouldered his way through the crowd to the dressing-rooms of his conquerors to extend congratulations.

WANTED TO WIN The fiery McGraw, leader of the New York Giants for thirty years, now sixty years old, wanted to win yesterday's game as greatly as he ever wanted to win anything. He had been injured off the back porch of his home in Pelham, N.Y., out of baseball retirement, to pilot the National League all-stars.

"It was a splendid game, wasn't it?" he asked. "Hallahan is either good or bad—he was had to-day. They got the breaks and won."

"Ruth was marvelous. That old boy certainly came through when they needed him."

After reaching the dressing-room of the American Leaguers, McGraw went immediately to the seventy-one-year-old Connie Mack, extending his hand in felicitations.

Both Mack and McGraw praised the spectacle and hoped that it would be repeated annually.

Doughnuts Not Indigestible, University Study Discloses

Food Has Been Malignant Without Sufficient Evidence; Accommodates Itself to Human System

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

For years it has been the general impression that the doughnut is among the most indigestible of all the foods enjoyed by man.

Because of the way in which a doughnut is prepared it resembles other forms of bread and cake excepting for its increased content of fat. The additional fat makes the doughnut richer in calories than other forms of pastry, and it has usually been understood that fats and foods rich in fat are digested more slowly than foods with lesser amounts of fat, because of the difficulty of penetration of the intestinal juices into these foods.

On the other hand, foods that remain fairly long in the stomach have "staying" qualities and are more likely to satisfy hunger than foods which spend a lesser time in the stomach.

In a recent survey of the subject, made by the Department of Physiological Chemistry of Yale University, it is pointed out that approximately two billion five hundred million doughnuts are eaten annually in the United States and the value of the output is estimated at approximately forty million dollars.

There are some people who are absolutely convinced that eating a doughnut is certain to be followed by indigestion. In order to establish definitely the relationship of the doughnut to the digestive tract, studies were made on six men, with varieties of diets, some of which included doughnuts and some of which did not. All of the food studied was analyzed, the digestive and elimination habits of the men concerned were studied, and everything possible was done to control the investigations from a scientific point of view.

It was found that there were no untoward effects on the health of the men when they consumed as many as six doughnuts daily for six consecutive days. None of the men developed constipation under such diets and, indeed, doughnuts made in the modern manner with proper distribution of the fat did not in any way affect the digestibility of a mixed diet which included doughnuts.

In the studies, the doughnuts were made to substitute for equal amounts of other proteins, fats and carbohydrates and under these circumstances the body chemistry was not disturbed in any way.

Apparently, then, the doughnut has been malignant without sufficient evidence as to its bad character. Given trial under the right conditions, it seems to accommodate itself to the human system.

Strangler Lewis Beats Dan Koloff

Portland, Ore., July 7.—Strangler Lewis, Glendale, Calif., defeated Dan Koloff, Chicago, two falls out of three in the main event of yesterday evening's wrestling card here. Lewis weighed 240, twenty pounds more than Koloff.

Oki Shikina, 215, Japan, took two straight falls to win the semi-windup from Everett Kibbens, 210, Chicago.

Wong Buck Cheung, 204, Chicago, won the opener from Billy Severe, 220, Dubuque, Iowa, taking one fall.

BEAR CAUSED HORSE'S DEATH

Lockhaven, Pa., July 7.—A bear's attack on a horse is under investigation by state game authorities for the first time in many years. The horse, belonging to M. R. Stoddard, of near Bradford, was attacked as it lay in a pasture. Members of the family heard a noise, frightened away the bear and shot the injured horse.

At last there has been found a man who can improve on nature. He is the artist who draws those glowing pictures on flowerseed packets.

COLLECTIONS SET NEW MARK

Saanich Taxes Collected to Date Are Highest Since 1928

Tax collections in Saanich to the end of June this year are higher than they have ever been since 1928, Clerk R. R. F. Sewell reported to the municipal council yesterday evening.

There has been a ready response to the council's system of prepayment under which there is a reduction of one-half of one per cent for each calendar month paid in advance. The first tax penalty of 3 per cent will be imposed on October 10 and by immediate payment, taxes of more than $25 will be reduced 1 per cent before the first penalty is levied.

The figures for collections during the first six months of the last four years follow: 1928, $17,594.93; 1929, $11,725.79; 1930, $8,453.72; 1931, $14,256.34, and 1932, $12,617.82.

Members of the council expressed gratification at the response and were optimistic that this year's estimate would be fully collected.

FARMERS WILL MAKE APPEAL

Rural Saanich Residents to Suggest New Land Values to Municipal Commission

Seeking Relief From Burdens Now Borne By Land Which They Claim Are Unjust

Farmers of Saanich, who for many years have complained of the inequity of the system of municipal taxation, claiming that large land areas were compelled to bear the burden caused by maintenance of services which are largely utilized by the urban residents, are planning to air their stand before the municipal commission when it sits in Victoria on July 12. It was intimated at a meeting of the Saanich council yesterday evening.

The intimation was first given by A. G. Lambriek, who appeared at the meeting on another delegation, and who stated that the farmers might be meeting the commissioners. The remark was occasioned by a remark from Councillor G. S. Eden, who warned against the rural representatives attending the commission meetings and "lobbying."

Mr. Lambriek promised that the farmers would not interfere with any matters being taken up with the government body by the municipality, but would not promise that the farmers would not be interviewing the commission.

Councillor L. C. Hagan stated he had heard rumors to the effect that a rural delegation might take up taxation matters with the commission.

The chief complaint, it is understood, is that which has long been sounded in rural areas regarding a more equitable distribution of taxation.

It was further intimated that the farmers' "night" suggestion that land values be established on the basis of rental values rather than have the values set by an assessor. The farmers are planning a meeting on the question before presentation to the commission.

Michell, Misses Florence Woodward, June Oldershaw, Mary and Ellen Peden, Vera and Bernice Handy, Delaney and Phoebe Clow, Joyce Davis, Thelma Minto, Muriel Pendray and Beverley Jean Mitchell.
